Anti-Red Is Slain, Five Get Wounds

Indian Guards Intercede During Rock-Tossing in Compound, Wards at Panmunjom

Panmunjom, Oct. 1 (AP)—One anti-Communist North Korean war prisoner was killed and five were wounded today when Indian guards opened fire during a screaming, rock-throwing demonstration in a compound and hospital, the Indian Command announced tonight.

The UN Command, which announced the incident first, said six prisoners were wounded.

An Indian spokesman said several Indian officers and enlisted men were injured by rocks.

The Indian Command said about 500 North Koreans in custody of the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission hurled stones and tried to scale a barbed wire fence while demonstrating against a visit by Polish and Czech commission members

Ordered to Fire

"When the situation grew so serious that the local commander thought the lives of the Indian troops and the NNRC members were threatened, he ordered his guards to fire single shots," said Brig. Gen. V. M. Kaul.

"They fired five or six single shots to begin with. A total of 12 rounds were fired, all single shots."

The Indian general said the demonstration began shortly after 11 a. m. and ended about noon. He said the Koreans quieted down immediately after the shots were fired.

Kaul said patients in the hospital "created disturbances" as five doctors from the commission entered for an inspection tour.

"Then some POWs in the nearby compound began to shout, throw stones and scale the barbed wire . . ." Kaul said.

"If a mass escape had taken place our troops might have been overrun," he added.

Began in Hospital

An allied spokseman said earlier the demonstration began in the hospital.

About 500 anti-Communist Korean prisoners in a compound adjacent to the hospital began climbing over the fence and throwing rocks, the spokesman said. He added that Indian troops then moved in and broke up the demonstration with guns and clubs.

"They killed one prisoner and wounded five others," he said.

A sixth prisoner was wounded later, so seriously that he may die, when the demonstration presumably broke out again, he reported.

The UN command refused to say where it obtained its information but the spokesman said the

Eisenhower Cites Newspaper Week

Washington, Oct. 1 (AP) — President Eisenhower cited National Newspaper Week, which begins today, as a time for remembering that democracy and a free press go hand in hand.

In a statement yesterday, he praised newspapermen as "custodians of a majestic trust," and said:

"A free press and a free society are essentially one. As the press can know freedom only in a Democratic state, so democracy itself is fortified by a free press."

Ellenville Man, 37, Killed on Rt. 209 As Car Rams Tree

Roy Homer Spence Was Construction Boss; His Car Demolished by Impact

Roy Homer Spence, Jr., 37, of Ellenville, was instantly killed about 3:20 a. m. today when the automobile he was driving ran off Route 209 and struck a tree at Wawarsing.

Spence, a supervisor for the Walsh-Perini Construction Company, apparently was driving alone, headed north, when he lost control of the 1951 sedan and crashed into the tree, state police of the Krumville station reported.

Auto Is Wrecked

The car was demolished, troopers said. As far as could be determined, no other vehicle was involved.

Coroner Francis J. McCardle of Kingston said today he will withhold his verdict on the death pending the results of an autopsy he ordered for today.

Dr. William R. Galeota of Kerhonkson acted as coroner's physician at the accident scene this morning, and Sgt. William Martin and Trooper S. Kurpil investigated for the state police.

Married, 3 Children

Spence was married and resided with his wife and three children at 37 Tuthill avenue, Ellenville. He was employed as a supervisor by Walsh Construction Company and B. Perini & Sons, Inc., contractors on New York city water supply projects in the area.

This morning's death was the 19th highway fatality reported in Ulster county since Jan. 1 of this year.

His Survivors

Spence is survived by his wife, the former Thelma Krom; two sons, Ralph and Craig Spence; a daughter, Sharon; a brother, Albert Spence of Phillipsport; three sisters, Mrs. Harold Garlinghouse of Ellenville, Mrs. June Severing of Poughkeepsie and Mrs. Grace Orego of Staten Island; his father, Royal Spence, of Phillipsport, and by several nieces and nephews.

During World War 2, he served with the U. S. Navy as a seaman, first class. He resided in Ellenville about 15 years.

Veterans' memorial services will be held Friday at 8 p. m. at the Pulling Funeral Home, Ellenville, where funeral services will be held Saturday at 2 p. m. Burial will be in Poplar Grove Cemetery, Phillipsport.

Two Liners Manage to Make Port

Sixty-Eight Ships Quit New York in Sailings Like Convoy Prior to Deadline

T-H Law Invoked

New York, Oct. 1 (AP)—A multi-million dollar longshoremen's strike today paralyzed east coast ports, and within hours President Eisenhower invoked Taft-Hartley law cooling off provisions in an effort to halt it.

Mechanics of invoking the law made it unlikely it could take effect before next week.

Railroad officials, in a move to prevent goods from piling up here, ordered an embargo on railroad freight destined for the New York waterfront for shipment.

Eisenhower appointed a three-member board of inquiry to report back to him by midnight of Monday, Oct. 5, after which he could seek a court order to apply the law's emergency provisions.

Pickets Are Busy

New York, Oct. 1 (AP)—Longshoremen paralyzed east coast docks from Maine to Virginia today in a multi-million dollar strike for higher wages.

"The ports are tied up completely from Portland, Me., to Hampton Roads, Va.," said a strike leader.

"Nothing is loading."

Two huge liners managed to dock in New York despite the work stoppage that began at midnight.

The 51,840-ton French liner Liberte, 936 feet long, berthed with the guidance of one of her motor lifeboats. The 683-foot American liner Constitution, a 29,500-tonner, was aided by two motor launches in docking.

Tugboat crews as well as longshoremen were idle.

Many ships fled port before the strike deadline.

Sixty-eight vessels, among them the liners United States and Queen Elizabeth, churned out of New York harbor yesterday like a wartime convoy. About 25 or 30 ships ordinarily sail from here in one day.

Pickets patrolled outside major piers at the 8 a. m. "shape-up," or going to work hour, but some disbanded later when it became apparent the longshoremen did not intend to work.

At the usually bustling Hudson river piers, only small picketing teams gave outward evidence that the strike was on.

There were no reports of violence despite inter-union rivalry for control of the waterfront.

The strike over a wage contract was called by the International Longshoremen's Association, recently ousted by the American Federation of Labor for failure to rid itself of racketeering elements. Efforts of the AFL to bring the discredited ILA members into a new union inspired fears of possible violence.

Police Move In

Police moved in when members of Local 895 which has affiliated with the newly formed AFL-ILA union tried to hand out leaflets urging membership in the new group to ILA pickets circling the Grace Line Pier 25 at West 10th street.

Separated by the police, the two groups contented themselves by taunting each other.

Tension eased somewhat, however, with the appearance of John Dwyer, former insurgent ILA leader and now a leader in the new group.

Asserting that his men "have no intention of crossing the picket line," Dwyer said they would respect the "no contract-no work" tradition.

Study Use of Injunction

Yesterday President Eisenhower said his Labor Department was studying use of the Taft-Hartley injunction to nip the strike of some 60,000 longshoremen and provide an 80-day cooling off period. A White House an-

Hagerty Tells Conference of Situation; Protest Made by Press

Washington, Oct. 1 (AP)—James C. Hagerty, White House Press secretary, said today neither he nor President Eisenhower knew in advance that the story of Gov. Earl Warren's impending appointment as Chief Justice of the United States would be leaked to several newspapers.

Hagerty told an inquiring reporter at his news conference:

"It is none of your business but the answer is no."

The reporter had asked whether the President or Hagerty knew in advance that the story would be leaked, who would do it, and who would be told.

John O'Donnell, Washington columnist for the New York Daily News, wrote in his paper today that Atty. Gen. Brownell "summoned 'four old friends' to his Washington home" on returning from a secret conference in California with Warren and tipped them off to the Warren story.

Acting Lt. Governor Is to Continue as Leader of Senate

Albany, Oct. 1 (AP)—Senate Leader Arthur H. Wicks was sworn in today as acting lieutenant governor of New York state.

Presiding Justice Sydney F. Foster of the Appellate Division administered the oath in the office vacated yesterday by Frank C. Moore, whom Wicks succeeds.

The noon-time ceremony took four minutes.

Wicks, 65-year-old Kingston Republican, will serve out Moore's term, which will expire Dec. 31, 1954. He will continue as majority leader and temporary president of the Senate.

Moore resigned yesterday to become president of the Government Research Foundation, Inc., a non-profit organization set up by Nelson A. Rockefeller. Moore was elected state comptroller in 1942 and Lt. Governor in 1950.

Wicks, a senator for 28 years, has been majority leader and temporary president of the chamber since 1949. He will retain his present salary of $5,000 a year and $10,000 expense allowance.

The lieutenant governor's salary is $10,000 a year, in addition he receives $10,000 in lieu of expenses.

Walter Goltz, 78, Artist, Succumbs

Woodstock, Oct. 1 — Walter Goltz, 78, well-known landscape artist, died Wednesday at Kingston Hospital.

"Pop," as he was known to a few old timers who called on him regularly, painted landscapes and figure pieces during recent years.

He remained at his home to paint, working from his imagination, on small and large canvases and with technical skill achieved some exceedingly fine pictures.

Art League Instructor

Goltz for several years was instructor at the New York Art Students League Summer School in Woodstock. He and John Carlson also had operated an art school in the village for 49 years. When the Students League Summer School was closed during World War 2, the two maintained a school here for several years.

Among Goltz' own teachers were noted English artist, Henry S. Mobray and Woodstock's Birge Harrison.

An exhibit of paintings by Goltz will be held some time this season in Woodstock, it was learned today.

Born in Buffalo

Goltz was born January 20, 1875 in Buffalo the son of the late Augustus and Anna Goltz.

He was a life member of Worth Lodge, 210, F & AM of New York.

He is survived by two brothers, Arthur S. and Charles A. Goltz of Buffalo.

Funeral services will be held Saturday from the Steck, Lockwood and Clark Funeral Home, 207 Main street, Buffalo. Cremation will follow at the Forest Lawn Crematory in Buffalo.

80-Degree Weather Highest September 30

A temperature of 80 degrees at 3 p. m., yesterday was the highest on record in the city engineer's office for Sept. 30.

This, however was not the hottest early fall day recorded in nearly 20 years of local weather records. That fine day was Oct. 5, 1941 when the mercury took an unseasonal climb to 92.

Today, however, by early indications promises to set some kind of a record. The temperature was 63 at 8 a. m., and 74 at noon.

Thruway Route Is Fixed At B'way and Albany Ave.

Connecting Spur Is Only One Part of 'Major Plan' Involving Changes on Kingston Streets

A tentative plan for an arterial route connection with the New York State Thruway from a point "west of Broadway" and near the intersection of Albany avenue has been fixed as a point of study by state engineers, it was learned today.

The proposed connecting spur, a state engineer said, is only one part of a "major plan" that would involve changes on city streets which are now main arteries of travel.

To Take Two Years

Whatever is done will take at least two years to complete, it was indicated, because the plan involves much more than the construction of a traffic artery to join the thruway as a means of diverting the heaviest traffic away from the narrow Washington avenue viaduct and Esopus creek bridge.

The entire route of the express highway between New York and Buffalo, with a few exceptions, is scheduled to be open to traffic in the fall of 1954. The arterial route plan, which involves much detail study could not possibly be

Yanks Score 1 Without Hit

New York, Oct. 1 (AP)—The New York Yankees heard encouraging reports that Allie Reynolds will be available for future duty today as the world champs prepared to send Eddie Lopat against Brooklyn's Preacher Roe in the second series game at Yankee Stadium.

Red Patterson, Yanks' publicity chief, said Reynolds back injury was "not as serious" as originally thought. He said the veteran right hander would take a whirlpool treatment today.

Manager Casey Stengel was not making any positive statements about the chief who was knocked out in the sixth inning of the opener. "They say that he says he's some better than he expected to be," was Stengel's quote.

It was another bright summery day with the thermometer due to hit the high 70s before the game was over. There was a slight breeze, blowing across the field from left toward right, just the opposite of yesterday.

The 14,000 bleacher seats were a little slower filling than yesterday but they were almost filled an hour before game time. It looked like another crowd like yesterday's 69,000 that set a new record for net receipts.

Tubby Art Sought For Local Exhibit; His Career Obscure

Information concerning a Kingston artist of the 19th Century is being sought by a local group which hopes to arrange an exhibit of his work.

The artist, who signed his canvases with the name, Tubby, apparently was a member of the Hudson River School and the few known existing examples of his work are of area landscapes.

One of his paintings is the property of Mr. and Mrs. G.V.D Hutton, and Mrs. John N. Cordts has two. Two small studies by Tubby are on display at the Senate House Museum.

Others in the area who may have Tubby paintings and who would be willing to lend them for an exhibit have been asked to contact Mrs. Hutton.

The group is also seeking information about Tubby, of whom little is known except that he is said to have been a friend of Jarvis McEntee, well known artist. In the 1870's, there was a Joseph Tubby who conducted a paint store in Kingston, according to old directories, but it is not definitely known whether he was the artist. Also, there are unconfirmed stories that a sign painter by the name of Tubby lived in Kingston and painted landscapes as an avocation. Anyone having further information has been asked to contact Mrs. Hutton.

Yonkers Raceway License Restored; Is to Reopen

New York, Oct. 1 (AP)—The cry of "the marshal calls for the trotters" will be heard again tomorrow night at Yonkers Raceway, whose license has been restored after a purge of criminal elements from the payroll.

The New York State Harness Racing Commission yesterday lifted its ban on the track in suburban Yonkers. The conditional license restoration technically becomes effective today, but the track operators found it impossimle to get things going in time to reopen tonight.

The track had been scheduled to reopen for its fall meeting last Monday night, and the loss of four nights of racing will cost it an estimated $400,000 to $500,000 in its share of the pari mutuel handle which ranges over one million dollars a night. The Yonkers fall meeting will be cut from 42 to 38 nights.

The State Harness Racing Commission suspended the track's license Sept. 22 after a conference with Gov. Thomas E. Dewey. The order followed revelations that the track had hired a number of men with criminal records who were on a list supplied by a union, and had paid $145,000-odd to a succession of five so-called "labor trouble-shooters."

The track has dismissed 35 employes whose police records were uncovered in the investigation.

Officials of the Yonkers Trotting Association, operator of the track, gave assurance that they no longer employ any "trouble-shooters" to preserve labor peace, commission sources said yesterday.

Harness track investigations were pressed today in other parts of the state—mainly at Roosevelt Raceway in Westbury, Long Island, which is indirectly linked with Yonkers Raceway.

The commission's special counsel, John T. Cahill, said yesterday that "thorough investigation" would be made of the affairs of the five harness tracks in the state in addition to Yonkers and Roosevelt.

Rep. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., (D.-Liberal-N.Y.) said last night that revelations at Yonkers and Roosevelt raceways indicated Dewey's Republican administration was guilty of "malfeasance in office."

Addressing 150 persons at a Democratic rally at Schenectady, Roosevelt said Dewey's administration also was guilty of "corruption and failure to keep out those responsible."

Investigation of Roosevelt Raceway, which closed its meeting last Saturday night, is being pressed by Nassau County District Attorney Frank A. Gulotta as well as by the Harness Racing Commission. Main phases of the inquiry are reports that AFL union leaders extorted up to $350,000 a year from track employes in a pay

Dallas Woman Slain; Posse of 400 Forms To Trap Nude Attacker of City's Women

Dallas, Tex., Oct. 1 (AP)—A posse of about 400 angry Dallas residents, incensed by a series of attacks on white women by a nude Negro prowler, helped harried police today in a search for the killer of a young mother.

The rape-slaying last night of Mrs. H. C. Parker, 29, attractive blonde dime store clerk, climaxed a series of beatings and rapes on white women by a prowler who has terrified Dallas for months.

Police said Mrs. Parker was literally "cut to pieces." Her throat was slashed deeply.

Although the reinforced police patrols and the angry citizens searched through the night in vain for the killer, police felt that extra patrols in the crowded business-residential area around Lemmon avenue and Reverchon Park paid off early today.

An elderly woman was thrown to the ground by a young white man in what police called a robbery attempt. The woman's screams attracted nearby plainclothesmen and the assailant was arrested on the spot. Police Sgt. Tom Ellis said he did not believe the man arrested had anything to do with Mrs. Parker's death.

Last night's second attack occurred within blocks of the place where Mrs. Parker was attacked on busy Lemmon avenue thoroughfare leading to Dallas' Municipal Airport from downtown.

As police received scores of calls from panicky citizens each night, Police Chief Carl Hansson warned citizens to be careful of their aim. Husbands dug old six-shooters and army weapons out of trunks and closets. Women slept fitfully with lights on and rifles by their beds. Bird guns were loaded with buckshot.

Mrs. Parker, wife of a tubercular patient who has been hospitalized for three years, gave scant details of the attack before she died en route to a hospital. She finished work at 9 p. m. in the Walnut Hills shopping center not far from Dallas Municipal Airport, Love Field. She followed her nightly routine of walking across the crowded northwest highway to a bus stop.

While waiting for her bus, she told police, a Negro grabbed her and forced her under a Lemmon avenue bridge. It was there she was attacked and repeatedly slashed. She dragged herself up the embankment and to the street where she collapsed. A passing motorist, W. H. Clarkson, American Airlines employe, found her, took her to the airport and called police.

Officers W. M. McGee and J. W. Gallagher said Mrs. Parker described her assailant as a stocky Negro dressed in a white T-shirt and khaki trousers. Hospital attendants confirmed that Mrs. Parker was raped shortly before her death.

Mrs. Venice Lorraine McGregor, mother of Mrs. Parker, said her daughter followed a set routine of walking to a bus stop near where she was attacked. A four-year-old son of Mrs. Parker stayed with the grandmother while she was at work.

Early yesterday, a prowler-conscious North Dallas resident grabbed a shotgun and fired through a window screen at a

Mechanics of invoking the law made it unlikely it could take effect before next week.

Railroad officials, in a move to prevent goods from piling up here, ordered an embargo on railroad freight destined for the New York waterfront for shipment.

Eisenhower appointed a three-member board of inquiry to report back to him by midnight of Monday, Oct. 5, after which he could seek a court order to apply the law's emergency provisions.

Pickets Are Busy

New York, Oct. 1 (AP)—Longshoremen paralyzed east coast docks from Maine to Virginia today in a multi-million dollar strike for higher wages.

"The ports are tied up completely from Portland, Me., to Hampton Roads, Va.," said a strike leader.

"Nothing is loading."

Two huge liners managed to dock in New York despite the work stoppage that began at midnight.

The 51,840-ton French liner Liberte, 936 feet long, berthed with the guidance of one of her motor lifeboats. The 683-foot American liner Constitution, a 29,500-tonner, was aided by two motor launches in docking.

Tugboat crews as well as longshoremen were idle.

Many ships fled port before the strike deadline.

Sixty-eight vessels, among them the liners United States and Queen Elizabeth, churned out of New York harbor yesterday like a wartime convoy. About 25 or 30 ships ordinarily sail from here in one day.

Pickets patrolled outside major piers at the 8 a. m. "shape-up," or going to work hour, but some disbanded later when it became apparent the longshoremen did not intend to work.

At the usually bustling Hudson river piers, only small picketing teams gave outward evidence that the strike was on.

There were no reports of violence despite inter-union rivalry for control of the waterfront.

The strike over a wage contract was called by the International Longshoremen's Association, recently ousted by the American Federation of Labor for failure to rid itself of racketeering elements. Efforts of the AFL to bring the discredited ILA members into a new union inspired fears of possible violence.

Police Move In

Police moved in when members of Local 895 which has affiliated with the newly formed AFL-ILA union tried to hand out leaflets urging membership in the new group to ILA pickets circling the Grace Line Pier 25 at West 10th street.

Separated by the police, the two groups contented themselves by taunting each other.

Tension eased somewhat, however, with the appearance of John Dwyer, former insurgent ILA leader and now a leader in the new group.

Asserting that his men "have no intention of crossing the picket line," Dwyer said they would respect the "no contract-no work" tradition.

Study Use of Injunction

Yesterday President Eisenhower said his Labor Department was studying use of the Taft-Hartley injunction to nip the strike of some 60,000 longshoremen and provide an 80-day cooling off period. A White House an-

Thruway Route Is Fixed At B'way and Albany Ave.

Connecting Spur Is Only One Part of 'Major Plan' Involving Changes on Kingston Streets

A tentative plan for an arterial route connection with the New York State Thruway from a point "west of Broadway" and near the intersection of Albany avenue has been fixed as a point of study by state engineers, it was learned today.

The proposed connecting spur, a state engineer said, is only one part of a "major plan" that would involve changes on city streets which are now main arteries of travel.

To Take Two Years

Whatever is done will take at least two years to complete, it was indicated, because the plan involves much more than the construction of a traffic artery to join the thruway as a means of diverting the heaviest traffic away from the narrow Washington avenue viaduct and Esopus creek bridge.

The entire route of the express highway between New York and Buffalo, with a few exceptions, is scheduled to be open to traffic in the fall of 1954. The arterial route plan, which involves much detail study could not possibly be

New York, Oct. 1 (AP)—The New York Yankees heard encouraging reports that Allie Reynolds will be available for future duty today as the world champs prepared to send Eddie Lopat against Brooklyn's Preacher Roe in the second series game at Yankee Stadium.

Red Patterson, Yanks' publicity chief, said Reynolds back injury was "not as serious" as originally thought. He said the veteran right hander would take a whirlpool treatment today.

Manager Casey Stengel was not making any positive statements about the chief who was knocked out in the sixth inning of the opener. "They say that he says he's some better than he expected to be," was Stengel's quote.

It was another bright summery day with the thermometer due to hit the high 70s before the game was over. There was a slight breeze, blowing across the field from left toward right, just the opposite of yesterday.

The 14,000 bleacher seats were a little slower filling than yesterday but they were almost filled an hour before game time. It looked like another crowd like yesterday's 69,000 that set a new record for net receipts.

The lineups:

Yankees		Dodgers
Woodling	lf	Gilliam	2b
Collins	1b	Reese	ss
Bauer	rf	Snider	cf
Berra	c	Robinson	lf
Mantle	cf	Campanella	c
McDougald	3b	Hodges	1b

Gilliam took a ball, bounced out to Rizzuto.

Reese lined hit to right field. When Bauer stumbled, fell, the ball bounced by him, hit off the right field wall, enabling Reese to race to third for stand up triple. Mantle retrieved the ball.

Snider went out on foul popup.

Robinson, attempting surprise squeeze bunt, fouled off first

Tubby Art Sought For Local Exhibit; His Career Obscure

Information concerning a Kingston artist of the 19th Century is being sought by a local group which hopes to arrange an exhibit of his work.

The artist, who signed his canvases with the name, Tubby, apparently was a member of the Hudson River School and the few known existing examples of his work are of area landscapes.

One of his paintings is the property of Mr. and Mrs. G.V.D Hutton, and Mrs. John N. Cordts has two. Two small studies by Tubby are on display at the Senate House Museum.

Others in the area who may have Tubby paintings and who would be willing to lend them for an exhibit have been asked to contact Mrs. Hutton.

The group is also seeking information about Tubby, of whom little is known except that he is said to have been a friend of Jarvis McEntee, well known artist. In the 1870's, there was a Joseph Tubby who conducted a paint store in Kingston, according to old directories, but it is not definitely known whether he was the artist. Also, there are unconfirmed stories that a sign painter by the name of Tubby lived in Kingston and painted landscapes as an avocation. Anyone having further information has been asked to contact Mrs. Hutton.

Yonkers Raceway License Restored; Is to Reopen

New York, Oct. 1 (AP)—The cry of "the marshal calls for the trotters" will be heard again tomorrow night at Yonkers Raceway, whose license has been restored after a purge of criminal elements from the payroll.

The New York State Harness Racing Commission yesterday lifted its ban on the track in suburban Yonkers. The conditional license restoration technically becomes effective today, but the track operators found it impossimle to get things going in time to reopen tonight.

The track had been scheduled to reopen for its fall meeting last Monday night, and the loss of four nights of racing will cost it an estimated $400,000 to $500,000 in its share of the pari mutuel handle which ranges over one million dollars a night. The Yonkers fall meeting will be cut from 42 to 38 nights.

The State Harness Racing Commission suspended the track's license Sept. 22 after a conference with Gov. Thomas E. Dewey. The order followed revelations that the track had hired a number of men with criminal records who were on a list supplied by a union, and had paid $145,000-odd to a succession of five so-called "labor trouble-shooters."

The track has dismissed 35 employes whose police records were uncovered in the investigation.

Officials of the Yonkers Trotting Association, operator of the track, gave assurance that they no longer employ any "trouble-shooters" to preserve labor peace, commission sources said yesterday.

Harness track investigations were pressed today in other parts of the state—mainly at Roosevelt Raceway in Westbury, Long Island, which is indirectly linked with Yonkers Raceway.

The commission's special counsel, John T. Cahill, said yesterday that "thorough investigation" would be made of the affairs of the five harness tracks in the state in addition to Yonkers and Roosevelt.

Rep. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., (D.-Liberal-N.Y.) said last night that revelations at Yonkers and Roosevelt raceways indicated Dewey's Republican administration was guilty of "malfeasance in office."

Addressing 150 persons at a Democratic rally at Schenectady, Roosevelt said Dewey's administration also was guilty of "corruption and failure to keep out those responsible."

Investigation of Roosevelt Raceway, which closed its meeting last Saturday night, is being pressed by Nassau County District Attorney Frank A. Gulotta as well as by the Harness Racing Commission. Main phases of the inquiry are reports that AFL union leaders extorted up to $350,000 a year from track employes in a pay

Dallas, Tex., Oct. 1 (AP)—A posse of about 400 angry Dallas residents, incensed by a series of attacks on white women by a nude Negro prowler, helped harried police today in a search for the killer of a young mother.

The rape-slaying last night of Mrs. H. C. Parker, 29, attractive blonde dime store clerk, climaxed a series of beatings and rapes on white women by a prowler who has terrified Dallas for months.

Police said Mrs. Parker was literally "cut to pieces." Her throat was slashed deeply.

Although the reinforced police patrols and the angry citizens searched through the night in vain for the killer, police felt that extra patrols in the crowded business-residential area around Lemmon avenue and Reverchon Park paid off early today.

An elderly woman was thrown to the ground by a young white man in what police called a robbery attempt. The woman's screams attracted nearby plainclothesmen and the assailant was arrested on the spot. Police Sgt. Tom Ellis said he did not believe the man arrested had anything to do with Mrs. Parker's death.

Last night's second attack occurred within blocks of the place where Mrs. Parker was attacked on busy Lemmon avenue thoroughfare leading to Dallas' Municipal Airport from downtown.

As police received scores of calls from panicky citizens each night, Police Chief Carl Hansson warned citizens to be careful of their aim. Husbands dug old six-shooters and army weapons out of trunks and closets. Women slept fitfully with lights on and rifles by their beds. Bird guns were loaded with buckshot.

Mrs. Parker, wife of a tubercular patient who has been hospitalized for three years, gave scant details of the attack before she died en route to a hospital. She finished work at 9 p. m. in the Walnut Hills shopping center not far from Dallas Municipal Airport, Love Field. She followed her nightly routine of walking across the crowded northwest highway to a bus stop.

While waiting for her bus, she told police, a Negro grabbed her and forced her under a Lemmon avenue bridge. It was there she was attacked and repeatedly slashed. She dragged herself up the embankment and to the street where she collapsed. A passing motorist, W. H. Clarkson, American Airlines employe, found her, took her to the airport and called police.

Officers W. M. McGee and J. W. Gallagher said Mrs. Parker described her assailant as a stocky Negro dressed in a white T-shirt and khaki trousers. Hospital attendants confirmed that Mrs. Parker was raped shortly before her death.

Mrs. Venice Lorraine McGregor, mother of Mrs. Parker, said her daughter followed a set routine of walking to a bus stop near where she was attacked. A four-year-old son of Mrs. Parker stayed with the grandmother while she was at work.

Early yesterday, a prowler-conscious North Dallas resident grabbed a shotgun and fired through a window screen at a

Press Has Huge Responsibility To Its Readers

By—J. EDGAR HOOVER
Director, Federal Bureau of Investigation
Washington, D. C.

In this crucial period of history, the free world is in jeopardy. A most vicious totalitarian menace — international communism — is loose among nations, exerting constant and steady pressure upon their basic freedoms. Free nations, through the simple fact of their existence, challenge this menace.

Never before has there been greater need for an alert, informed, vigilant citizenry. Never has the responsibility of the press been greater. Since it is, of course, the primary purpose of the press to inform the reader, its moral responsibility for sound, thorough, factual reporting is vital indeed.

I know of no greater duty devolving upon the free press of this nation than to inform itself fully of the nature of the threat which we face, and to impart that knowledge to its readers. While the great majority of Americans classify the word "communism" as evil, too many individuals have only the vaguest notion of the fact behind the word. The mind of the average American finds it difficult to conceive of a conspiracy which teaches that all means, including lies, treason and murder, become not only permissible but also moral when they are bent toward furthering the cause of communism. The citizen is, therefore, too apt to underestimate the gravity of this vicious conspiracy. The blight of communism feeds on lack of knowledge. A free and informed press can disperse the shadows of ignorance and misinformation.

Nor does the role of watch dog, which naturally devolves upon the press of a free country, pertain only to matters concerning the security of the nation. Conditions would be chaotic, indeed, were it not for the fearlessness of editors who daily have the courage to point out evidences of corruption and criminal affiliations on the part of public officials.

We in the Federal Bureau of Investigation are proud of the splendid spirit of cooperation which has enabled us to depend so completely upon the understanding and intelligence of the American press. A not inconsiderable part of our success in the execution of our duties rests upon its contributions. Our mutual execution of public obligations is forever interdependent.

The privileges which the citizens of this nation enjoy can be preserved only while they remain alert. Today, as always, the weakest element in national security and good government is public apathy. It is a weakness which only a free and informed press can dispel.

In these times we fight for ideas and newspapers are our fortresses.—Heine.

MAJOR DILEMMA FOR PRESIDENT

It is significant that out of the many things uttered by President Eisenhower in Boston, the country has fastened upon one main thought: "There is no sacrifice—no labor, no tax, no service—too hard for us to bear to support a logical and necessary defense of our freedom."

This general sentiment was widely endorsed, of course. But it was the intriguing inclusion of the word "tax" that caught especial attention. Did this mean the President soon intended to propose new taxes, or put off the scheduled elimination and reduction of present levies?

To the second part of the query, Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey delivered a fast "no." The 10 per cent cut in personal income taxes and the abandonment of the excess profits tax planned for Jan. 1, 1954, will be carried out as promised. Leading lawmakers echoed Humphrey.

To the first part, there was no immediate conclusive answer. The administration is known to be studying new tax devices, but is not ready for decision.

But the fact that the word "tax" rang such a loud bell suggests that many are sensitive to the greatest dilemma facing the President in the coming months: how to honor Republican pledges of a balanced budget and lower taxes while still assuring the country of an adequate defense.

Even with present tax revenues, the administration looks for a 1953-54 deficit of three to four billion dollars. The scheduled Jan. 1 changes would trim off perhaps five billions. Other scheduled cuts in corporate and excise levies next April figure to slice federal income another three billions.

How is this handicap to be made up and the budget balanced? Government experts agree any further major savings can only come from defense funds, including foreign assistance. But the current year's defense budget was cut by five billions, and there's a question how much further it can be slashed with safety.

The new Joint Chiefs of Staff are presently examining this very issue. Their recommendations will have compelling force. If they say no deeper cuts can wisely be made, the President and Congress are not too likely to second-guess them. That would then shift the problem to finding some new revenue source.

Optimists feel scheduled tax reductions will not be a total loss, believing some revenues may be recaptured through encouragement of higher business activity as result of the cuts. Others think new taxes are inescapable.

Mr. Eisenhower, well aware that Russia's acknowledged possession of a hydrogen device has heightened the urgency of an effective defense, may have been testing public response to the idea of some sort of replacement taxes.

If congressional reaction is a measure of public attitude, then a national sales tax—the only specific levy known to be under study—has little chance of approval in 1954. To a lawmaker, the thought of passing a sales tax, of all taxes, in an election year is too grim to contemplate.

But there are a couple of things that might be grimmer—an unmanageable deficit or a flabby defense against Russian A-bombs and H-bombs.

THE PRESIDENT'S STORY

In an effort to illustrate his conviction that handicapped people can live full, useful lives and make valuable contributions to society, President Eisenhower recently told the following story:

In 1944, when he was General Eisenhower in supreme command of all allied forces, he asked for a certain officer to lead an army corps. When he was informed that the officer he wanted was in a hospital with arthritis he replied:

"It's the head and heart of the man I want, not his knees. I'll carry him to battle on a litter if necessary."

General Eisenhower got his man and the officer did a brilliant job in the post to which he was assigned.

The President's story should carry weight with people who want to give employment to handicapped persons but who, for one reason or another, hesitate to do so. Such people often have skills, knowledge and training that more than make up for their handicaps.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

A FARMER'S LAMENT

We temporary farmers who, with the first breeze of spring, rush from the city to push a seed into the soil, depart from our farms in the autumn when the leaves turn red and golden.

The mixed life of city dweller and farmer, of woodman and taxi-rider, of eating the fruits of one's labors or the French concoctions of the Colony Restaurant—it is a life of contrasts. Today I write in peace and solitude, except for the call of a catbird, the cooing of pigeons and the rustling of the wind through the leaves; tomorrow I shall hear the incessant clang of steel on steel, the dull grind of a parade of automobiles, a million radios blaring their varied echoes through a million open windows, the conversations that rise from nowhere but are heard all over as the sound of the city.

One sometimes wonders why any of us return to the vast cities; yet, I have seen prospective Thoreaus vegetate on the countryside. The intention is always to produce a great work, to sit upon a rock and gaze upon the heavens whence comes inspiration. And only too often one gazes until ideas flee like the humming bird. The mind relaxes and the work that was intended remains an intention.

I recall when sometime in the 1920's, I sat upon a rock on the island of Chinsan in the Yangtse River watching the waters of that mighty stream swirl in a torrent and then meekly disappear in the wide stream. I wrote about it then and said that a Buddhist priest told me that it was like washing the brain. That was the first time I had heard the expression, and it was right that it should come from a Buddhist, for that is their objective in life, to achieve Nirvana, the sum total of nothingness, which is perfection.

And that, too, I have noted here in the country where it is possible to sit quietly and wash one's mind of the accumulations of trivia. Who really cares, I ask you, if these two celebrated morons are married or divorced or whether having publicly quarrelled, they have as publicly become reconciled? The robins, too, quarrel and mate and mate and quarrel and nobody bothers with it but the robins. The crow flies high and roars his song, but no press-agent announces the news. The skunk goes by and leaves his calling card everywhere like some humans.

In the country, one can take refuge in the beauty that a Divine Intelligence paints everlastingly in perfect symmetry. The other day, weary of reading long and trying reports, to be digested and used in this small column, I could not help but wonder why only the human race glories in the ugly. What foul and stupid things are said and done in the name of civilization!

The statesmen and historians call it war and the scientists devise instruments of torture and death and all in the name of civilization. Yet, what can be the value of our efforts, if it is not to bring peace and contentment to ourselves and our neighbors? Why do the statesmen still believe that great empires, achieved by holocausts, are worth the cost in human life? Do they not know that their empires will crumble like hard-pan under a pick-ax? All empires crumble and leave behind them islands of forgotten little nations.

The robins are gone and so much else goes with them. The birds gather upon telephone wires, hundreds of them, to take a last look at the lovely land where they sang away the summer. The chipmunk and rabbit and squirrel will stay behind, having filled their bins with food for the winter. The woodchuck burrows deep in his hole where he will sleep away his time until spring calls again.

It is even like those races of man who cross continents and seas in search of greatness and somewhere stop to find happiness.

And so back to the grind of the city, to endless talk and conferences and meetings and dinners and banquets and the search for amusement. Both ways of living have their purposes and their reasons and if one can live both ways, in different seasons, he has perhaps discovered a law of life, namely, that all things must be in balance to be of value.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

HAY FEVER AND ASTHMA

Despite the fact that a new antihistamine is placed on the market about once a month, physicians report that the old-fashioned method of treating hay fever—ragweed fever—by injecting small doses of the ragweed pollen just before or during the hay fever season is still the best method of treatment. As histamine in the blood is considered the underlying cause of hay fever and asthma, an antihistamine is the logical treatment.

In the Canadian Medical Association Journal, Dr. C. J. Malloy, Montreal, states that specific desensitization in ragweed hay fever by small doses of the pollen was introduced by Dr. L. Noon (Lancet) in 1911 and while other methods and the use of many antihistamines have been tried since that time, the main broad principles of treatment have remained unchanged "and it is generally agreed among allergists that this method gives best symptomatic relief to ragweed sufferers and that, while a large proportion of untreated cases eventually develop seasonal or perennial asthma (asthma always present), specific desensitization reduces the number of these cases significantly."

It is also agreed that while the antihistamines give good results in some cases, there is evidence to suggest that sole reliance on antihistamines in treatment has led to the development of asthma toward the end of the hay fever season. The antihistamines should be used together with the usual desensitizing or hyposensitizing and in the milder cases.

From experience, allergists state that where the antihistamine causes some side effects, best results are obtained in the treatment of ragweed hay fever by desensitizing the patient with small doses of pollen. One case reported by an industrial physician was a young woman who had two series of injections of ragweed pollen with no improvement in hay fever symptoms, but given larger doses, causing severe side reactions and weakness, the hay fever symptoms disappeared and have not returned during the past five years.

Dr. Malloy reports a total of 78 cases, 58 of which were treated in the out-patient department of the Royal Victoria Hospital and 20 cases in Dr. Malloy's office in 1952. Eight cases received treatment during the year and 70 took treatment just before the hay fever season. Twenty to twenty-five injections were considered the ideal pre-season course.

The success of treatment by small does of ragweed pollen seemed dependent upon the "regularity" of the treatments and that showed that larger doses are necessary to achieve results even if more temporary side effects are present.

Don't Expect Miracles Very Soon

Larsen's Washington News Notebook

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington — (NEA) — Administrations may come and go but the five percenter business is apparently here to stay—even though it's devalued a percentage point or two.

And there always seems to be a place for new talent in the field.

As one frankly proud five percenter explains it:

"What's the difference between what we do and the law profession? Lawyers have a special knowledge of the law and legal procedure which they sell. We have a special knowledge of the complicated machinery of government which we sell. It's a profession which they ought to be teaching in colleges."

He also claims that politics doesn't have much to do with getting ahead in the field. As proof he cites the cases of three prominent Democrats who are now making good peddling their specialized knowledge of various function of the government, even as it is being run by the Republicans.

Have Good Clients, Too

Within the trade it's reported that Biffle and Steelman have each latched onto several very good clients, big firms whose Washington interests they are now handling. Richards is in the mortgage business which obviously puts him in frequent contact with the government's housing agency.

The Eisenhower inaugural official, Warren L. Stephenson, who recently got into the soup by trying to sell information about proposed classified navy purchases was strictly a rookie, the veterans all claim.

Everybody in the "per cent" business in Washington knew about the navy rocket launching contract on which Stephenson got burned, the old hands assert. It was leaked widely before Stephenson heard about it. Word had gotten out that the FBI was looking into it and everyone but Stephenson stayed away from it.

The Stephenson case, it is claimed, points up the two most serious abuses in the government's procurement system. And the system hasn't changed materially since the Republicans took over.

The first weakness is that it still lends itself to the "influence peddling" which Congress tried to eliminate several years ago. The four or five percenter who knows an important cabinet officer or two, or can get an undersecretary on the phone any time, still has the inside track on government business. He can influence the procurement officer lower down to throw a contract one way or another.

Weakness in "Closed Negotiation"

That situation is made possible by the biggest weakness of all in government buying which is the "closed negotiation." This device is supposed to be used exclusively for secret items. Yet in the past few months large contracts for such items as tent poles, mess kits, ammunition boxes and belt links have been let on negotiated contracts.

The way it works, the purchasing official gets in touch with a few companies he knows can make and deliver the item he wants to buy. These firms then submit informal estimates of what it will cost to produce the item. But the purchasing agent isn't committed to accept the lowest offer, nor is the firm committed to accept the order on the basis of his tentative offer.

The whole thing is worked out by "negotiation." And it's "legal" because there's a "secret" stamp on the order.

Sometimes only two or three companies are asked to make offers on negotiated contracts. There may be six to 10. But it strictly limits the number of firms which can ever get a crack at such business.

Pentagon officials admit that close to 80 per cent of all its weapon procurement is done by the negotiated contract, although nowhere near that fraction of the buying involves classified items.

It keeps the four and five percenters in business. The trick is to get around to the purchasing agents of all of the various bureaus and offices and get the company they represent included in the exclusive negotiated contract notices. The big firms can afford to have their own full-time representatives handle this business. The smaller firms have to depend on the five percenters.

Disapproval of Warren Appointment Might Come From Judges, Practicing Attorneys

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Oct. 1 — Politics has often played a part in choosing members of the judiciary—including selections to the Supreme Court of the United States. But that doesn't make it a commendable practice.

The designation of Governor Warren of California to be chief justice of the United States will be acclaimed by the politicians as a smart appointment but will be disapproved by those members of the bench and by practicing lawyers who still cling to the old-fashioned idea that when it comes to selecting justices for the Supreme Court of the United States, the choice should be made from the ablest jurists in the nation.

It is not a disparagement of Governor Warren's potentiality or of his splendid record in public life, including his service as attorney general of his state, to say that there are at least a dozen men in America better qualified than he is to be chief justice. Nor is it a reflection on President Eisenhower's sincerity of purpose to say that the reasons he gave for picking Governor Warren seem to be in keeping with a concept that has again and again been denounced—namely, that justices should be appointed with the idea of expecting a certain political or judicial philosophy to be expounded by them on the bench.

The late President Theodore Roosevelt, who appointed Justice Wendell Holmes to the Supreme Court, expected him to rule one way on a basic issue and made the appointment with that idea in mind, but Justice Holmes ruled the opposite way, much to the consternation of the White House.

President Eisenhower says he chose Governor Warren because of his middle-of-the-road philosophy. What has that to do with the interpretation of the statutes or the settlement of controversies between citizens, especially when fundamental questions of constitutionality are involved? Plainly the law is to be construed on the basis of the facts and the precedents and the principles of fairness. There is no middle of the road as between right and wrong in determining a judicial question. Congress may pass good or bad laws, yet whether they are constitutional has to be decided not on the basis of any particular philosophy of government but on their actual conformity to the powers set forth in the constitution.

In the present Supreme Court are six justices who never served before on the bench. Glenn R. Winters, editor of the Journal of the American Judicature Society, in a news release issued before it was known who would be appointed chief justice, said:

"Today the total prior judicial experience of the members of the Supreme Court consists of Mr. Justice Black's 18 months as a police judge and Mr. Justice Minton's eight years on the Federal Appellate bench."

Mr. Winters says it is possible to overemphasize the need for prior judicial experience, "but it seems more than clear that it has actually been badly underemphasized. There are great and distinguished judges today on both state and federal courts eminently qualified for the judicial and administrative responsibilities of the chief justiceship."

There is not doubt that Governor Warren's political prominence was a major factor in bringing him to the high court now. He has had no prior judicial experience. Had he been a practicing lawyer in California, he never would have been considered. The very applause that has come from the AFL, the CIO and New Dealers generally concerning the appointment of Governor Warren shows that its political and pro-labor aspects have been given more consideration than any special qualifications for the post which other jurists in America have today. Perhaps the appointment was expected to be a sop to labor unions because Governor Warren is regarded by many employers in California as pro-labor.

President Eisenhower's attention to the political phases of the Warren appointment will produce an undertone of dissatisfaction among the many members of the bar who like to think that the Supreme Court of the United States, before which they may argue some day, will be composed of the best lawyers or masters of jurisprudence that the country can boast. To select judges on the basis of their ideological predilections is to do what most people condemned when the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt said, apropos of his "court packing" plan, that he wanted justices whose ideas would go along with his. Governor Warren may turn out to be a better judge than some experienced jurist of narrow vision might have been—but the precedent is not going to cause cheers among members of the bar in America.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Jimmy Petrillo, a dictator with no authority from any political division of our nation, nor even from his own abject subjects has announced that, in collusion with a British unioneer, he has decided to continue to exclude British musicians from the United States. The British unioneer will exclude Americans from Britain. This deal will prevent British players from performing for hire in this country and that will be a flagrant usurpation of the power of Congress set forth in the first article of our Constitution, which says: "Congress shall have power to regulate commerce with foreign nations."

The British unioneer is Arthur Radcliffe, general secretary of the appropriate union over there, which is equally destitute of authority from the British parliament to set up barriers to prevent foreigners from working in the United Kingdom. The British laws are not the same as ours but their purport is about the same. Nevertheless, in a comparable case a few years ago, coal miners in Wales tried to exclude workers from Italy whose enthusiasm for double-shifts so that they could earn money to feed their families back home was described in amazement by an English journalist who saw them toiling while the British union miners loafed.

American workers paid income taxes to export coal from Norfolk to England to make up the deficiency. As insult upon injury, we also paid, as consumers, a tribute of 40 cents a ton to John L. Lewis's "Welfare" Fund, which is absolutely under his hand to do with as he will. The entire cost of this coal, mined here by American labor and exported to Britain for the sole reason that Welsh miners refused to work, was borne by the American people through our income taxes. The experiment with Italian miners in Wales failed because, among other reasons, the Italians in their brief leisure had enterprise enough to appeal pleasantly to Welsh village girls.

Petrillo had just returned from the convention of the so-called International Confederation of Free Trade Unions in Stockholm, which is an extension of the AF of L particularly of David Dubinsky's frontiers into foreign lands. This confederation is a Socialistic internationale operating in the manner of the Moscow Communist internationale. There is no recognized demarcation between the socialism of the AF of L-Dubinsky empire and the communism of the Muscovites. Indeed, Dubinsky's two principal political agents, Jay Lovestone and Irving Brown, are Red Communists who advocated bloody revolution in the United States and have never recanted although some of their disciples in the Eisenhower administration claim that they did so.

Petrillo is a blatant, vulgar tyrant of the union rackets whose achievements include a disappearance described as an abduction and a "ransom" of $50,000 paid by his subjects by his personal decision. He may not have been abducted at all and his subjects never were told who got the money. He also "permitted" the same subjects, confined to his original Chicago jurisdiction, to give him a furnished house, complete with bar, of an estimated value of $50,000. The Internal Revenue held this to be taxable income and claimed $26,000 as tax, interest and penalty.

At any given time the proportion of Jimmy's subjects who are employed in the many phases of the music racket is not more than one in five. Most of the "members" are occasional performers who work as barbers, soda-men, schoolteachers and so forth but play in taverns or for dances of clubs when they can get engagements. They have absolutely no voice in the union and the official publications of both locals and the international are couched in threatening terms. The musicians are forever being warned that the maze of regulations adopted by Petrillo and his associate bosses forbid them to do things which the constitution and laws of the nation and states permit them to do, under pain of confiscation of their money and banishment from the trade. The Miami local charges all visiting musicians $1 a month for "insurance." New members over 50 years are excluded from the group policy but have to pay just the same.

About the same time that Petrillo was blandly announcing that he had decided not to let British musicians come here to perform, Stan Kenton, an American with his own orchestra, was barred out by the British union. Many Britons desired to hear his concerts so a number of them chartered planes to fly to Dublin for his engagement there. Thus the British musicians gained nothing and Britain lost some commerce to Ireland.

This mutually exclusive arrangement has been in effect for years by decree and agreement of the American and British unions, without the slightest deference to public law or authority. Petrillo said he had favored an open door both ways but that Radcliffe insisted on restrictions whereat the two of them went back to the status quo.

In either country the musicians' union could picket the docks or airports to embarrass visiting musicians, but the actual method of restricting such commerce with a foreign nation here would be a boycott against any assembly hall offering such visitors a theatre.

The music under Petrillo's jurisdiction is nonessential but the parasitic nature and effrontery of American unionism are no better exemplified in any other field. President Eisenhower and his court have paid police acknowledgements to the communists Lovestone and Brown and Ike sent Vice-President Nixon to grovel at the high consistory of the AF of L in St. Louis.

MAJOR DILEMMA FOR PRESIDENT

It is significant that out of the many things uttered by President Eisenhower in Boston, the country has fastened upon one main thought: "There is no sacrifice—no labor, no tax, no service—too hard for us to bear to support a logical and necessary defense of our freedom."

This general sentiment was widely endorsed, of course. But it was the intriguing inclusion of the word "tax" that caught especial attention. Did this mean the President soon intended to propose new taxes, or put off the scheduled elimination and reduction of present levies?

To the second part of the query, Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey delivered a fast "no." The 10 per cent cut in personal income taxes and the abandonment of the excess profits tax planned for Jan. 1, 1954, will be carried out as promised. Leading lawmakers echoed Humphrey.

To the first part, there was no immediate conclusive answer. The administration is known to be studying new tax devices, but is not ready for decision.

But the fact that the word "tax" rang such a loud bell suggests that many are sensitive to the greatest dilemma facing the President in the coming months: how to honor Republican pledges of a balanced budget and lower taxes while still assuring the country of an adequate defense.

Even with present tax revenues, the administration looks for a 1953-54 deficit of three to four billion dollars. The scheduled Jan. 1 changes would trim off perhaps five billions. Other scheduled cuts in corporate and excise levies next April figure to slice federal income another three billions.

How is this handicap to be made up and the budget balanced? Government experts agree any further major savings can only come from defense funds, including foreign assistance. But the current year's defense budget was cut by five billions, and there's a question how much further it can be slashed with safety.

The new Joint Chiefs of Staff are presently examining this very issue. Their recommendations will have compelling force. If they say no deeper cuts can wisely be made, the President and Congress are not too likely to second-guess them. That would then shift the problem to finding some new revenue source.

Optimists feel scheduled tax reductions will not be a total loss, believing some revenues may be recaptured through encouragement of higher business activity as result of the cuts. Others think new taxes are inescapable.

Mr. Eisenhower, well aware that Russia's acknowledged possession of a hydrogen device has heightened the urgency of an effective defense, may have been testing public response to the idea of some sort of replacement taxes.

If congressional reaction is a measure of public attitude, then a national sales tax—the only specific levy known to be under study—has little chance of approval in 1954. To a lawmaker, the thought of passing a sales tax, of all taxes, in an election year is too grim to contemplate.

But there are a couple of things that might be grimmer—an unmanageable deficit or a flabby defense against Russian A-bombs and H-bombs.

THE PRESIDENT'S STORY

In an effort to illustrate his conviction that handicapped people can live full, useful lives and make valuable contributions to society, President Eisenhower recently told the following story:

In 1944, when he was General Eisenhower in supreme command of all allied forces, he asked for a certain officer to lead an army corps. When he was informed that the officer he wanted was in a hospital with arthritis he replied:

"It's the head and heart of the man I want, not his knees. I'll carry him to battle on a litter if necessary."

General Eisenhower got his man and the officer did a brilliant job in the post to which he was assigned.

The President's story should carry weight with people who want to give employment to handicapped persons but who, for one reason or another, hesitate to do so. Such people often have skills, knowledge and training that more than make up for their handicaps.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

A FARMER'S LAMENT

We temporary farmers who, with the first breeze of spring, rush from the city to push a seed into the soil, depart from our farms in the autumn when the leaves turn red and golden.

The mixed life of city dweller and farmer, of woodman and taxi-rider, of eating the fruits of one's labors or the French concoctions of the Colony Restaurant—it is a life of contrasts. Today I write in peace and solitude, except for the call of a catbird, the cooing of pigeons and the rustling of the wind through the leaves; tomorrow I shall hear the incessant clang of steel on steel, the dull grind of a parade of automobiles, a million radios blaring their varied echoes through a million open windows, the conversations that rise from nowhere but are heard all over as the sound of the city.

One sometimes wonders why any of us return to the vast cities; yet, I have seen prospective Thoreaus vegetate on the countryside. The intention is always to produce a great work, to sit upon a rock and gaze upon the heavens whence comes inspiration. And only too often one gazes until ideas flee like the humming bird. The mind relaxes and the work that was intended remains an intention.

I recall when sometime in the 1920's, I sat upon a rock on the island of Chinsan in the Yangtse River watching the waters of that mighty stream swirl in a torrent and then meekly disappear in the wide stream. I wrote about it then and said that a Buddhist priest told me that it was like washing the brain. That was the first time I had heard the expression, and it was right that it should come from a Buddhist, for that is their objective in life, to achieve Nirvana, the sum total of nothingness, which is perfection.

And that, too, I have noted here in the country where it is possible to sit quietly and wash one's mind of the accumulations of trivia. Who really cares, I ask you, if these two celebrated morons are married or divorced or whether having publicly quarrelled, they have as publicly become reconciled? The robins, too, quarrel and mate and mate and quarrel and nobody bothers with it but the robins. The crow flies high and roars his song, but no press-agent announces the news. The skunk goes by and leaves his calling card everywhere like some humans.

In the country, one can take refuge in the beauty that a Divine Intelligence paints everlastingly in perfect symmetry. The other day, weary of reading long and trying reports, to be digested and used in this small column, I could not help but wonder why only the human race glories in the ugly. What foul and stupid things are said and done in the name of civilization!

The statesmen and historians call it war and the scientists devise instruments of torture and death and all in the name of civilization. Yet, what can be the value of our efforts, if it is not to bring peace and contentment to ourselves and our neighbors? Why do the statesmen still believe that great empires, achieved by holocausts, are worth the cost in human life? Do they not know that their empires will crumble like hard-pan under a pick-ax? All empires crumble and leave behind them islands of forgotten little nations.

The robins are gone and so much else goes with them. The birds gather upon telephone wires, hundreds of them, to take a last look at the lovely land where they sang away the summer. The chipmunk and rabbit and squirrel will stay behind, having filled their bins with food for the winter. The woodchuck burrows deep in his hole where he will sleep away his time until spring calls again.

It is even like those races of man who cross continents and seas in search of greatness and somewhere stop to find happiness.

And so back to the grind of the city, to endless talk and conferences and meetings and dinners and banquets and the search for amusement. Both ways of living have their purposes and their reasons and if one can live both ways, in different seasons, he has perhaps discovered a law of life, namely, that all things must be in balance to be of value.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

HAY FEVER AND ASTHMA

Despite the fact that a new antihistamine is placed on the market about once a month, physicians report that the old-fashioned method of treating hay fever—ragweed fever—by injecting small doses of the ragweed pollen just before or during the hay fever season is still the best method of treatment. As histamine in the blood is considered the underlying cause of hay fever and asthma, an antihistamine is the logical treatment.

In the Canadian Medical Association Journal, Dr. C. J. Malloy, Montreal, states that specific desensitization in ragweed hay fever by small doses of the pollen was introduced by Dr. L. Noon (Lancet) in 1911 and while other methods and the use of many antihistamines have been tried since that time, the main broad principles of treatment have remained unchanged "and it is generally agreed among allergists that this method gives best symptomatic relief to ragweed sufferers and that, while a large proportion of untreated cases eventually develop seasonal or perennial asthma (asthma always present), specific desensitization reduces the number of these cases significantly."

It is also agreed that while the antihistamines give good results in some cases, there is evidence to suggest that sole reliance on antihistamines in treatment has led to the development of asthma toward the end of the hay fever season. The antihistamines should be used together with the usual desensitizing or hyposensitizing and in the milder cases.

From experience, allergists state that where the antihistamine causes some side effects, best results are obtained in the treatment of ragweed hay fever by desensitizing the patient with small doses of pollen. One case reported by an industrial physician was a young woman who had two series of injections of ragweed pollen with no improvement in hay fever symptoms, but given larger doses, causing severe side reactions and weakness, the hay fever symptoms disappeared and have not returned during the past five years.

Dr. Malloy reports a total of 78 cases, 58 of which were treated in the out-patient department of the Royal Victoria Hospital and 20 cases in Dr. Malloy's office in 1952. Eight cases received treatment during the year and 70 took treatment just before the hay fever season. Twenty to twenty-five injections were considered the ideal pre-season course.

The success of treatment by small does of ragweed pollen seemed dependent upon the "regularity" of the treatments and that showed that larger doses are necessary to achieve results even if more temporary side effects are present.

Don't Expect Miracles Very Soon

Larsen's Washington News Notebook

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington — (NEA) — Administrations may come and go but the five percenter business is apparently here to stay—even though it's devalued a percentage point or two.

And there always seems to be a place for new talent in the field.

As one frankly proud five percenter explains it:

"What's the difference between what we do and the law profession? Lawyers have a special knowledge of the law and legal procedure which they sell. We have a special knowledge of the complicated machinery of government which we sell. It's a profession which they ought to be teaching in colleges."

He also claims that politics doesn't have much to do with getting ahead in the field. As proof he cites the cases of three prominent Democrats who are now making good peddling their specialized knowledge of various function of the government, even as it is being run by the Republicans.

Have Good Clients, Too

Within the trade it's reported that Biffle and Steelman have each latched onto several very good clients, big firms whose Washington interests they are now handling. Richards is in the mortgage business which obviously puts him in frequent contact with the government's housing agency.

The Eisenhower inaugural official, Warren L. Stephenson, who recently got into the soup by trying to sell information about proposed classified navy purchases was strictly a rookie, the veterans all claim.

Everybody in the "per cent" business in Washington knew about the navy rocket launching contract on which Stephenson got burned, the old hands assert. It was leaked widely before Stephenson heard about it. Word had gotten out that the FBI was looking into it and everyone but Stephenson stayed away from it.

The Stephenson case, it is claimed, points up the two most serious abuses in the government's procurement system. And the system hasn't changed materially since the Republicans took over.

The first weakness is that it still lends itself to the "influence peddling" which Congress tried to eliminate several years ago. The four or five percenter who knows an important cabinet officer or two, or can get an undersecretary on the phone any time, still has the inside track on government business. He can influence the procurement officer lower down to throw a contract one way or another.

Weakness in "Closed Negotiation"

That situation is made possible by the biggest weakness of all in government buying which is the "closed negotiation." This device is supposed to be used exclusively for secret items. Yet in the past few months large contracts for such items as tent poles, mess kits, ammunition boxes and belt links have been let on negotiated contracts.

The way it works, the purchasing official gets in touch with a few companies he knows can make and deliver the item he wants to buy. These firms then submit informal estimates of what it will cost to produce the item. But the purchasing agent isn't committed to accept the lowest offer, nor is the firm committed to accept the order on the basis of his tentative offer.

The whole thing is worked out by "negotiation." And it's "legal" because there's a "secret" stamp on the order.

Sometimes only two or three companies are asked to make offers on negotiated contracts. There may be six to 10. But it strictly limits the number of firms which can ever get a crack at such business.

Pentagon officials admit that close to 80 per cent of all its weapon procurement is done by the negotiated contract, although nowhere near that fraction of the buying involves classified items.

It keeps the four and five percenters in business. The trick is to get around to the purchasing agents of all of the various bureaus and offices and get the company they represent included in the exclusive negotiated contract notices. The big firms can afford to have their own full-time representatives handle this business. The smaller firms have to depend on the five percenters.

Disapproval of Warren Appointment Might Come From Judges, Practicing Attorneys

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Oct. 1 — Politics has often played a part in choosing members of the judiciary—including selections to the Supreme Court of the United States. But that doesn't make it a commendable practice.

The designation of Governor Warren of California to be chief justice of the United States will be acclaimed by the politicians as a smart appointment but will be disapproved by those members of the bench and by practicing lawyers who still cling to the old-fashioned idea that when it comes to selecting justices for the Supreme Court of the United States, the choice should be made from the ablest jurists in the nation.

It is not a disparagement of Governor Warren's potentiality or of his splendid record in public life, including his service as attorney general of his state, to say that there are at least a dozen men in America better qualified than he is to be chief justice. Nor is it a reflection on President Eisenhower's sincerity of purpose to say that the reasons he gave for picking Governor Warren seem to be in keeping with a concept that has again and again been denounced—namely, that justices should be appointed with the idea of expecting a certain political or judicial philosophy to be expounded by them on the bench.

The late President Theodore Roosevelt, who appointed Justice Wendell Holmes to the Supreme Court, expected him to rule one way on a basic issue and made the appointment with that idea in mind, but Justice Holmes ruled the opposite way, much to the consternation of the White House.

President Eisenhower says he chose Governor Warren because of his middle-of-the-road philosophy. What has that to do with the interpretation of the statutes or the settlement of controversies between citizens, especially when fundamental questions of constitutionality are involved? Plainly the law is to be construed on the basis of the facts and the precedents and the principles of fairness. There is no middle of the road as between right and wrong in determining a judicial question. Congress may pass good or bad laws, yet whether they are constitutional has to be decided not on the basis of any particular philosophy of government but on their actual conformity to the powers set forth in the constitution.

In the present Supreme Court are six justices who never served before on the bench. Glenn R. Winters, editor of the Journal of the American Judicature Society, in a news release issued before it was known who would be appointed chief justice, said:

"Today the total prior judicial experience of the members of the Supreme Court consists of Mr. Justice Black's 18 months as a police judge and Mr. Justice Minton's eight years on the Federal Appellate bench."

Mr. Winters says it is possible to overemphasize the need for prior judicial experience, "but it seems more than clear that it has actually been badly underemphasized. There are great and distinguished judges today on both state and federal courts eminently qualified for the judicial and administrative responsibilities of the chief justiceship."

There is not doubt that Governor Warren's political prominence was a major factor in bringing him to the high court now. He has had no prior judicial experience. Had he been a practicing lawyer in California, he never would have been considered. The very applause that has come from the AFL, the CIO and New Dealers generally concerning the appointment of Governor Warren shows that its political and pro-labor aspects have been given more consideration than any special qualifications for the post which other jurists in America have today. Perhaps the appointment was expected to be a sop to labor unions because Governor Warren is regarded by many employers in California as pro-labor.

President Eisenhower's attention to the political phases of the Warren appointment will produce an undertone of dissatisfaction among the many members of the bar who like to think that the Supreme Court of the United States, before which they may argue some day, will be composed of the best lawyers or masters of jurisprudence that the country can boast. To select judges on the basis of their ideological predilections is to do what most people condemned when the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt said, apropos of his "court packing" plan, that he wanted justices whose ideas would go along with his. Governor Warren may turn out to be a better judge than some experienced jurist of narrow vision might have been—but the precedent is not going to cause cheers among members of the bar in America.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Jimmy Petrillo, a dictator with no authority from any political division of our nation, nor even from his own abject subjects has announced that, in collusion with a British unioneer, he has decided to continue to exclude British musicians from the United States. The British unioneer will exclude Americans from Britain. This deal will prevent British players from performing for hire in this country and that will be a flagrant usurpation of the power of Congress set forth in the first article of our Constitution, which says: "Congress shall have power to regulate commerce with foreign nations."

The British unioneer is Arthur Radcliffe, general secretary of the appropriate union over there, which is equally destitute of authority from the British parliament to set up barriers to prevent foreigners from working in the United Kingdom. The British laws are not the same as ours but their purport is about the same. Nevertheless, in a comparable case a few years ago, coal miners in Wales tried to exclude workers from Italy whose enthusiasm for double-shifts so that they could earn money to feed their families back home was described in amazement by an English journalist who saw them toiling while the British union miners loafed.

American workers paid income taxes to export coal from Norfolk to England to make up the deficiency. As insult upon injury, we also paid, as consumers, a tribute of 40 cents a ton to John L. Lewis's "Welfare" Fund, which is absolutely under his hand to do with as he will. The entire cost of this coal, mined here by American labor and exported to Britain for the sole reason that Welsh miners refused to work, was borne by the American people through our income taxes. The experiment with Italian miners in Wales failed because, among other reasons, the Italians in their brief leisure had enterprise enough to appeal pleasantly to Welsh village girls.

Petrillo had just returned from the convention of the so-called International Confederation of Free Trade Unions in Stockholm, which is an extension of the AF of L particularly of David Dubinsky's frontiers into foreign lands. This confederation is a Socialistic internationale operating in the manner of the Moscow Communist internationale. There is no recognized demarcation between the socialism of the AF of L-Dubinsky empire and the communism of the Muscovites. Indeed, Dubinsky's two principal political agents, Jay Lovestone and Irving Brown, are Red Communists who advocated bloody revolution in the United States and have never recanted although some of their disciples in the Eisenhower administration claim that they did so.

Petrillo is a blatant, vulgar tyrant of the union rackets whose achievements include a disappearance described as an abduction and a "ransom" of $50,000 paid by his subjects by his personal decision. He may not have been abducted at all and his subjects never were told who got the money. He also "permitted" the same subjects, confined to his original Chicago jurisdiction, to give him a furnished house, complete with bar, of an estimated value of $50,000. The Internal Revenue held this to be taxable income and claimed $26,000 as tax, interest and penalty.

At any given time the proportion of Jimmy's subjects who are employed in the many phases of the music racket is not more than one in five. Most of the "members" are occasional performers who work as barbers, soda-men, schoolteachers and so forth but play in taverns or for dances of clubs when they can get engagements. They have absolutely no voice in the union and the official publications of both locals and the international are couched in threatening terms. The musicians are forever being warned that the maze of regulations adopted by Petrillo and his associate bosses forbid them to do things which the constitution and laws of the nation and states permit them to do, under pain of confiscation of their money and banishment from the trade. The Miami local charges all visiting musicians $1 a month for "insurance." New members over 50 years are excluded from the group policy but have to pay just the same.

About the same time that Petrillo was blandly announcing that he had decided not to let British musicians come here to perform, Stan Kenton, an American with his own orchestra, was barred out by the British union. Many Britons desired to hear his concerts so a number of them chartered planes to fly to Dublin for his engagement there. Thus the British musicians gained nothing and Britain lost some commerce to Ireland.

This mutually exclusive arrangement has been in effect for years by decree and agreement of the American and British unions, without the slightest deference to public law or authority. Petrillo said he had favored an open door both ways but that Radcliffe insisted on restrictions whereat the two of them went back to the status quo.

In either country the musicians' union could picket the docks or airports to embarrass visiting musicians, but the actual method of restricting such commerce with a foreign nation here would be a boycott against any assembly hall offering such visitors a theatre.

The music under Petrillo's jurisdiction is nonessential but the parasitic nature and effrontery of American unionism are no better exemplified in any other field. President Eisenhower and his court have paid police acknowledgements to the communists Lovestone and Brown and Ike sent Vice-President Nixon to grovel at the high consistory of the AF of L in St. Louis.

Asylum Is Sought

Berlin, Oct. 1 (AP)—East Germans again are seeking western asylum in increasing numbers. West Berlin officials say an average of 600 refugees poured in daily during the past week. The flow reached a climax of 1,600 a day in March but dropped to only 300 to 400 a week after the Communist regime in June promised a better life and more freedom for the East Germans. The Reds also titghtened police controls after the June 17 rebellion. Failure of the Reds to improve living conditions, plus fears of another hard winter without sufficient food and coal, is spurring more East Germans to risk the border crossing, West Berlin officials said.

The Pilgrims brought with them the beginnings of a free press.

Light Albany Vote Seen

Albany, Oct. 1 (AP)—Everything points to a light vote in the sixth district of Albany's Ninth Ward on Election Day Nov. 3. There are only three registered voters—all residents of the same house. Nicholas Lantz and his son, Donald, are registered Democrats. Mrs. Lantz has no party affiliation.

Local Man Wins IH Sales Contest

Charles M. Cole, local International Harvester refrigerator dealer and his wife today are making preparations to leave by air October 17 for Miami Beach and Havana as the result of Cole being among the winners in a national contest for the sale of International Harvester refrigerators and freezers during the summer months. The local dealership placed first in the eastern New York territory and was given a choice of an eight-day all-expense trip for husband and wife to either Cuba or Mexico.

Cole set a selling record of 43 refrigerators and freezers during the 76 days of the campaign. His organization is one of more than 200 which topped their respective sales areas to win the travel awards. He was also rewarded with merchandise prizes.

Highlights of Mr. and Mrs. Cole's tour will be:

An elaborate dinner party in Miami Beach on the evening of their arrival for all the winners, three days of sightseeing, swimming and dancing in Miami Beach, followed by the flight to Havana. In Cuba they will stay at the Hotel Nacional and be entertained with tours of the islands, a jti alai game, and visits to the native industries and night spots before leaving Saturday morning, October 24 for the flight home.

Asylum Is Sought

Berlin, Oct. 1 (AP)—East Germans again are seeking western asylum in increasing numbers. West Berlin officials say an average of 600 refugees poured in daily during the past week. The flow reached a climax of 1,600 a day in March but dropped to only 300 to 400 a week after the Communist regime in June promised a better life and more freedom for the East Germans. The Reds also titghtened police controls after the June 17 rebellion. Failure of the Reds to improve living conditions, plus fears of another hard winter without sufficient food and coal, is spurring more East Germans to risk the border crossing, West Berlin officials said.

The Pilgrims brought with them the beginnings of a free press.

A small boy with a penny tightly clutched in his hand entered the toy shop and drove the proprietor to distraction asking to see this and that and everything without ever making up his mind.

Boss—Look here, my boy. What do you want for a penny—the whole word with a fence around it?

Boy—(without hesitation) Let's see it.

From a country paper: The other night a citizen pulled a revolver from under his pillow and blazed away at what he thought was a burglar in his room. Investigation proved that he had shot a hole through his own trousers which were hanging on a chair. All that saved him from killing himself was that he had removed his trousers before going to bed.

Game Warden—Don't you know rabbits are out of season now?

Hunter—Yes, but I had to shoot this one. Just plain self defense.

Too many folks don't want to help improve their community, but they want to get in on all the benefits.

Orator—If all the women were taken out of circulation what kind of a nation would this be?

At this point a young man in the back row shouted:

Young Man—Stag-nation.

It's not just the high price of meat, but Uncle Sam takes all the gravy.

John—I'm going to commit suicide. I've lost my job. I've lost my girl. I've even lost my dog. I have nothing more to lose.

Don—Yes: Tighten your belt, you're losing your pants.

Fear, if cultivated will become stronger, but faith, if cultivated, will achieve a mastery.

Sheriff—Hey, there's no swimming allowed.

She—Why didn't you tell me that before I got undressed?

Sheriff—Well, there's no law against that.

Mirth is from God, and dullness from the devil. You can never be too sprightly, you can never be too good tempered.

THE RUMINATOR

By HUMPHREY B. NEILL

A Column of Contrary Opinion

It would seem to be particularly timely to ruminate again over the fallacies of predictions.

The Ruminator cannot recall a time—except at year-ends, when forecasting has become an annual word-festival—when predictions-of-things-to-come have been more voluminous in our papers and magazines (or over the air).

It has reached a stage now where businessman after businessman gets up at luncheon and dinner meetings to castigate all those "who are talking us into a slump."

The Ruminator, for one, doesn't believe that you can talk yourself into a slump. Quite the contrary: if you talk continually about a business recession you'll probably forestall, stave off, the set-back.

For the past seven years we have witnessed this psychological phenomenon happen again and again. The Ruminator remembers well, for example, all the talk about the "well-advertised slump" of 1947—which didn't materialize. Each year has been similar.

So, considering the avalanche of slump talk today it would appear the better part of wisdom to remember that the majority of predictions never pan out when expected.

There are two reasons for this, as we have discussed before:

The very weight of the predictions cause their downfall.

Counteracting forces are put into play because of the common fear of the predictions.

Thus we witness the interesting paradox of forecasters actually making their own forecasts go wrong. Their influence is perhaps greater than they realize. People do pay attention to the predictions. But what happens is that when the thoughts of a slump, for example, become an obsession businessmen and bankers adopt policies to off-set the down-turn—or attempt at least to operate in such manner as to protect themselves against the sharp down-hill they are told lies ahead. In consequence, if the economic machine has not gotten too far out of gear their slowing-down and caution will prevent a bad spill.

At the same time, the spending public, who are less apprehensive of the economic facts of life, continues to spend money and buy goods. The average person of moderate income does not know how he can protect himself against a slump. He says to himself: "What can I do about it, if the recession does come?" He may add to his savings a little, but otherwise does not see much else to do. He might, of course, refrain from adding to his installment purchases—and a few do—but the inclination of people is to spend so long as they have money and do not anticipate losing their jobs.

Right today, we are witnessing this type of what we might call "opposite reactions." Spending remains on a high level, notwithstanding all the slump talk; yet, bankers and businessmen are moving more cautiously and planning for the set-back.

The foregoing seems to be about the manner in which "psychology" (for want of a better word) operates when predictions become universal.

In this connection, the Ruminator was much interested in comments recently by Henry Hazlitt, who regularly writes a penetrating economic commentary in Newsweek titled "Business Tides." Hazlitt was referring to what he called "a slashing attack" on economic forecasting which appeared in Lloyd's Bank Review (London) last April, by Professor John Jewkes of Oxford. He quoted Professor Jewkes as follows: "It cannot too strongly be emphasized that there is nothing in economic science which enables us to forecast events. Those who claim otherwise are dragging their subject down to the level of astrology. . . . There is nothing in history to suggest that the expected will normally happen. (I have added the emphasis in the latter sentence, because it bears so heavily on the theory of contrary opinion).

Hazlitt, while agreeing in principle with Jewkes, felt that the professor overstated the case against predictions somewhat, remarking that the latter "does not distinguish between 'conditional' prediction and 'categorical' prediction which is presumptuous. "In other words, Hazlitt believes in economic reasoning of cause and effect, which can be helpful in gauging the future—"can reduce the bad guesses."

kickback racket, and that catering concession receipts were split up in a peculiar way.

Yonkers Raceway is being investigated by Westchester County District Attorney Samuel Fale as well as by the Harness Racing Commission.

Cahill, the commission's counsel, emphasized in announcing the lifting of the Yonkers suspension that the action was "conditional," and that investigation of the track's affairs will continue. Cahill added that "further administrative sanction"—with possible revocation of the license — would be invoked against the track "if further violations of the law or the rules and regulations of the commission were found."

"What is par on this hand?" asks my friend and critic, C. M. Smith, of Madison, Wis. "Maybe South shouldn't bid it so strongly, but if he does get to three no-trump by some such bidding, what should happen?

"West opens the nine of spades, and in the average game nobody would have a problem. Dummy would play low, and East would win with the king. East would eventually get his two red aces and some sort of fourth trick, but South would make game and rubber with nine tricks.

"If East happened to be very clever, he would play the jack of spades at the first trick instead of winning it with the king. South would win with the queen of spades and go after one of the red suits.

"East would take his first red ace and shoot back the king of spades to dummy's ace. East would get in with his second red ace in time to lead his low spade, whereupon West would set the contract with three spade tricks.

"If South happened to be just as clever as East, he would refuse the first spade trick when East played the jack. South would have to play the hand very carefully from that point on, because he would make only one spade trick, but he would eventually catch East in a complicated squeeze and end-play, forcing him to lead hearts to dummy.

"But if South happened to be really clever, he wouldn't go in for all of this complicated business. He would simply win the first trick in dummy with the ace of spades and go about the business of developing the red suits. He would easily wind up with three club tricks and two tricks in each of the other suits.

"How do you think the hand ought to be played?"

I think declarer should locate all of the high cards quite easily because of the double of one club. Hence he should put up dummy's ace of spades at the first trick to avoid complications.

East should drop the king of spades under dummy's ace and should return the jack of spades when he takes the first red ace. If South makes the mistake of winning the second spade trick with the queen, East will be able to lead his low spade when he eventually gets in with the second red ace—and West will get three spade tricks. But South should refuse the second spade trick and make his contract.

Articles on Moon

The United States was tremendously excited in 1835 by a series of articles in the New York Sun, the first penny newspaper, describing life on the moon as seen through a tremendously powerful telescope. The articles described the inhabitants, bat-like men and women, in detail. The author later explained that he intended the story as a satire.

Anti-Red Slain

report "is reliable." Information could have come from allied soldiers delivering supplies to the Indian guards or from one of the neutral nations observers.

The allied spokesman said that so far as he knew, no other prisoner compounds took up the demonstration.

Second Demonstration

The demonstration was the second by anti-Communist prisoners within a week. Chinese POWs seized an Indian major and held him hostage 1½ hours last Friday to protect the return of a Chinese captive to the Communists.

The repatriation commission, meanwhile, put the finishing touches on an answer to a UN command protest that it distributed an allegedly Communist inspired letter to anti-Red POWs Saturday.

An Indian spokesman said the first draft of the letter—rejected by the commission—was somehow distributed to the POWs instead of a second approved version.

Newspapers More Necessary

Nothing but a newspaper can drop the same thought into a thousand minds at the same time. Newspapers, therefore, become more necessary as men become more equal.—Alex de Tocqueville.

Dallas Woman

neighbor he thought was a prowler. The neighbor was searching for his son.

Early Tuesday morning, 16 squads of patrolmen and detectives had tramped through Reverchon Park following an appearance of the nude prowler who sometimes wears striped shorts, at other times appears in bedrooms naked.

Mrs. R. T. Griffin, night nurse at Bradford Memorial Hospital, said she was in the office at the front of the building and saw the Negro looking in the window. A porch light, she said revealed that he was unclothed.

"I screamed and the man ran," she said.

Dallas has had 18 rapes of white women by Negroes in 18 months. A few weeks ago the rapes increased to three in as many weeks. Several times the nude prowler has been scared away. A week ago, a resident of the Reverchon Park area drove him off with his fists as the man attempted to enter the front door of his home. Another man entered his bedroom to find his wife being raped by the prowler. He was cut by the knife-wielding Negro.

Cooler Weather

Albany, Oct. 1 (AP)—October breathed a promise of cooler weather into the state today after September had made its exit with temperatures that ranged into the 80s and low 90s. The weather bureau predicted daytime temperatures in the 60s and 70s for at least the next two days, dropping into the 40s in most regions at night.

East Coast Docks

nouncement on the situation was expected today.

Last night the vast New York waterfront was a beehive of activity. Longshoremen worked at fever pitch to get several dozen ships loaded and out of the world's largest port before the strike deadline of midnight.

Cargo for American armed forces abroad will not be affected.

A strike along the North Atlantic seaboard means an estimated loss of $1,500,000 daily, and directly and indirectly will affect 800,000 workers holding jobs in the New York area alone.

In 1951, a wildcat ILA strike crippled shipping for 25 days and tied up billions of dollars worth of cargo.

The new walkout involves 12 eastern seaboard cities: New York; Portland; Boston; Providence, R. I.; New London, New Haven and Bridgeport, Conn.; Wilmington, Del.; Philadelphia and Chester, Pa.; Baltimore; and Hampton Roads, Va.

Patrick J. Connolly, ILA executive vice president; said yesterday that ILA locals in south Atlantic ports from Cape Hatteras to Tampa, Fla., had pledged not to unload any cargoes diverted from struck northernmost ports.

However, the port of Halifax, Nova Scotia—outside the strike area—prepared to handle diverted shipping. Longshore officials said cargoes would be handled as required by their contract.

The ILA stood on its demand for a 13-cent an hour wage-welfare boost, the New York Shipping Association offered 8½ cents. The current basic longshore wage is $2.27 an hour.

Tugboat operators in New York announced they would respect ILA picket lines.

Anti-Red Slain

report "is reliable." Information could have come from allied soldiers delivering supplies to the Indian guards or from one of the neutral nations observers.

The allied spokesman said that so far as he knew, no other prisoner compounds took up the demonstration.

Second Demonstration

The demonstration was the second by anti-Communist prisoners within a week. Chinese POWs seized an Indian major and held him hostage 1½ hours last Friday to protect the return of a Chinese captive to the Communists.

The repatriation commission, meanwhile, put the finishing touches on an answer to a UN command protest that it distributed an allegedly Communist inspired letter to anti-Red POWs Saturday.

An Indian spokesman said the first draft of the letter—rejected by the commission—was somehow distributed to the POWs instead of a second approved version.

Newspapers More Necessary

Nothing but a newspaper can drop the same thought into a thousand minds at the same time. Newspapers, therefore, become more necessary as men become more equal.—Alex de Tocqueville.

Dallas Woman

neighbor he thought was a prowler. The neighbor was searching for his son.

Early Tuesday morning, 16 squads of patrolmen and detectives had tramped through Reverchon Park following an appearance of the nude prowler who sometimes wears striped shorts, at other times appears in bedrooms naked.

Mrs. R. T. Griffin, night nurse at Bradford Memorial Hospital, said she was in the office at the front of the building and saw the Negro looking in the window. A porch light, she said revealed that he was unclothed.

"I screamed and the man ran," she said.

Dallas has had 18 rapes of white women by Negroes in 18 months. A few weeks ago the rapes increased to three in as many weeks. Several times the nude prowler has been scared away. A week ago, a resident of the Reverchon Park area drove him off with his fists as the man attempted to enter the front door of his home. Another man entered his bedroom to find his wife being raped by the prowler. He was cut by the knife-wielding Negro.

Cooler Weather

Albany, Oct. 1 (AP)—October breathed a promise of cooler weather into the state today after September had made its exit with temperatures that ranged into the 80s and low 90s. The weather bureau predicted daytime temperatures in the 60s and 70s for at least the next two days, dropping into the 40s in most regions at night.

East Coast Docks

nouncement on the situation was expected today.

Last night the vast New York waterfront was a beehive of activity. Longshoremen worked at fever pitch to get several dozen ships loaded and out of the world's largest port before the strike deadline of midnight.

Cargo for American armed forces abroad will not be affected.

A strike along the North Atlantic seaboard means an estimated loss of $1,500,000 daily, and directly and indirectly will affect 800,000 workers holding jobs in the New York area alone.

In 1951, a wildcat ILA strike crippled shipping for 25 days and tied up billions of dollars worth of cargo.

The new walkout involves 12 eastern seaboard cities: New York; Portland; Boston; Providence, R. I.; New London, New Haven and Bridgeport, Conn.; Wilmington, Del.; Philadelphia and Chester, Pa.; Baltimore; and Hampton Roads, Va.

Patrick J. Connolly, ILA executive vice president; said yesterday that ILA locals in south Atlantic ports from Cape Hatteras to Tampa, Fla., had pledged not to unload any cargoes diverted from struck northernmost ports.

However, the port of Halifax, Nova Scotia—outside the strike area—prepared to handle diverted shipping. Longshore officials said cargoes would be handled as required by their contract.

The ILA stood on its demand for a 13-cent an hour wage-welfare boost, the New York Shipping Association offered 8½ cents. The current basic longshore wage is $2.27 an hour.

Tugboat operators in New York announced they would respect ILA picket lines.

Fire Fighters Test Equipment

The "Blitz Buggy", one of the latest innovations in fire fighting equipment, is shown under test at the Rondout creek dock on East Strand. Demonstrated by the Albany Ave. Garage Inc. of 545 Albany avenue, the "Blitz Buggy" is mounted on a 4-wheel drive Willys chassis and attains a maximum pressure of 600 lbs. It has a single stage pump that will deliver 100 gallons of water per minute, and has a booster tank carrying 220 gallons of water. The fire fighting apparatus also has included in its equipment two reels of small hose with fog nozzle and a reel of "inch and a half" hose. It is now on display at the Albany Ave. Garage. (Freeman Photo)

Young Burglars Would Go Straight

White Plains, Oct. 1 (AP)—The 9-year-old gang leader told the cops, "I want to go straight."

The blond youngster had been picked up earlier this week as head of a gang of small boys who took part in 29 burglaries in the past eight months and netted $1,330.

Detectives Charles McKay said yesterday the gang never carried weapons but "just used their own two little hands."

The boy leader used his two little hands in the station house to open a safe. He told amazed authorities he just "listens to the tumblers fall in place."

McKay said the sub-teeners "don't realize what they did" and eventually will grow up to be fine citizens.

"All these kids have TV sets," McKay added. "When they came in here to the police station they all knew their rights—knew they didn't have to talk and that they could demand lawyers."

None of the boys was identified because of their ages.

The leader was asked: "What were you taught in school about boys who tell lies?"

"They go to hell."

"Where do good boys go?"

"To heaven."

"Where do you think you'll go?"

"I guess I'll go to hell."

Hearing Is Adjourned

Albany, Oct. 1 (AP)—The Public Service Commission has adjourned until Oct. 21 a hearing on a proposal by the New York Central Railroad to combine the eastbound Chicagoan and Missourian on its main line. Examiner F. L. Titus set the date yesterday after hearing arguments by the railroad and two opponents of the plan.

The newspaper has been called the common man's university.

Report Given on Council

New York, Oct. 1 (AP)—A special review board is reported to have cleared the Council for Social Action of the Congregational Christian Churches of any taint of subversion or pro-communism. The report comes from the executive committee of the General Council of Congregational Christian Churches.

William Penn fostered freedom of the press in Philadelphia.

Weekly Food Review

(By The Associated Press)

Housewives plagued by steadily rising meat prices will get a respite this week—beef and pork prices will be lower in many of the nation's food markets, and in some areas lamb will be cheaper, too.

Many stores nominated beef cuts such as rib roasts, steaks, chuck roasts and ground beef as the best buys for the weekend. Reductions will range from two to four cents a pound.

Pork Chops Lower

Pork chop prices, which have climbed rather spectacularly in recent months, also will be lower. One nationwide chain said it planned reductions of four cents a pound in New York and Jacksonville, six cents in Philadelphia, eight cents in Washington, D. C., and 10 cents in Pittsburgh. The price in Los Angeles will be unchanged from a week ago, while in Chicago, an exception to the general trend, the price will be hiked eight cents a pound by the chain.

Another countrywide chain will feature hams for the weekend, with reductions of from eight to 14 cents a pound on smoked hams and four cents on fresh picnics.

An official of this chain commented that while some pork prices have fluctuated, "bacon just keeps going up." In some areas, top quality bacon was selling near $1 a pound this week.

Top grade large white eggs, which also hovered near $1 in some areas, dropped two to four cents a dozen in several cities this week and added several cents in other places.

Some stores said they will feature stewing chicken for the weekend. As for frying chickens, they declined a few cents in some areas and advanced that much elsewhere.

Coffee Price Advance

A New York coffee roaster announced this week that it will raise the wholesale price of the breakfast beverage by three cents a pound on Monday. That will bring the wholesale figure up to 92 cents a pound. The firm blamed increasing costs of green coffee.

A nationwide marketer of coffee said it had no plans for a similar increase, however.

Men in the produce trade singled out limes as something of a super-buy this week, describing the wholesale price as unusually low. Other good buys in fruits: Grapes, plums and prunes, cooking apples and melons.

Good Vegetable Buys

There'll be numerous good buys in vegetables. Produce men named them as beets, cabbage, celery, corn, escarole, endive, onions, Boston lettuce, black-eyed peas, peppers, potatoes, radishes, spinach, summer squash, sweet potatoes, tomatoes and eggplant. Incidentally, the first California tomatoes began reaching eastern markets this week.

As early as 1905, Boris Rosing proposed the use of a cathoderay tube to reconstruct television images.

Virginia Cracks Down

Norfolk, Va., Oct. 1 (AP)—The Virginia Registration Board for Contractors cracked down on five out-of-state construction companies after they had submitted bids on a multi-million dollar public housing project without first registering with the board. Lawrence M. Cox, executive director of the Norfolk Redevelopment and Housing Authority, said yesterday he had advised the five firms they were not qualified to compete for the contract on 626 public housing units, bids on which will be opened here next Wednesday.

The firms include P. Mallonee of Valley Stream, N. Y.

Eugene Conley, Famed American Tenor, Will Begin Community Concert Series

Eugene Conley, the American tenor who was twice cited for special roles at the Metropolitan Opera last season, will open this year's Community Concert Association series Wednesday, Oct. 14, 8:30 p. m., at Kingston High School. As celebrated in recital as opera, Conley is a frequent guest on radio-TV's prestige musical program, Voice of Firestone; is a Londan FFRR recording artist; and in pictures he sang the voice of Faust in the Italian motion picture of that opera.

Born in Lynn, Mass., of Irish-English ancestory, Conley had the normal boyhood of the average American boy. He belonged to the Boy Scouts, played on the high school baseball team, was soloist in the high school glee club and sang in several local churches. It was not until after he left high school that he began thinking of a singing career. He joined the Boston Male Choir and toured the country with it. This led to engagements with other singing and orchestral units and finally the National Broadsacting Company featured him on a program of his own called NBC Presents Eugene Conley.

Cited as One of Great Tenors

His operatic debut was as the Duke in Rigoletto and he was such a success that he went on tour with the San Carlo Opera Company and sang with several other summer opera companies.

Following his discharge from the army air force with which he served in World War 2, Conley resumed his singing career with transcontinental concert tours and appearances with the New York City Center Opera Company. He accepted invitations to sing in many of the musical centers of Europe and in Stockholm where he was the first American to sing at the Royal Opera House since 1939, he was hailed as one of the great tenors of today.

Accordingly, La Scala Opera House in Milan especially revived I Puritani for Conley during the 1949-50 season. Ten days later he made his Metropolitan debut. He was re-engaged by La Scala in December, 1951, becoming the first U. S. born and trained tenor to open the regular La Scala season when he sang the tenor lead in I Vespri Siciliani. In 1952 he performed at the Teatro Colon in Buenos Aires.

Toscanini's Choice for Missa Solemnis

Last season he was chosen to sing the role of the Rake in the Metropolitan's premiere of The Rake's Progress; and as Rodolfo in the world premiere of the Met's newly staged production of La Boheme. Toscanini presented him in the leading tenor part of Beethoven's Missa Solemnis with the NBC Symphony Orchestra last spring.

When not busy with his music, Conley likes nothing better than to go out with his camera to see what he can snap. He is married to one of the country's leading contraltos, Winifred Heidt.

For the Kingston concert Marcel Frank will be the accompanist. The program will include:

Where'er You Walk from Semele, Handel; Sound an Alarm, from Juda Maccabaeus, Handel; On Wings of Song and Spring Song, Mendelssohn; Nichts (Nothing) and Heimliche Aufforderung (Lover's Pledge) by Strauss; Aria —Il mio tesoro (My Beloved) from Don Giovanni, Mozart.

Aria — Recondita armonia (Strange Harmony) from Tosca and Che gelida manina (Thy Hand Is Frozen) from La Boheme, Puccini.

Floods of Spring and To the Children, Rachmaninoff; The Garden Where the Praties Grow, arr. Liddle; Beloved (based on Rubenstein's Romance) arr. Conley-Frank.

Aria—Parmi veder le lagrime (Each Tear that Falls) and La donna e mobile (Woman is Fickle) both from Rigoletto, Verdi.

Virginia Cracks Down

Norfolk, Va., Oct. 1 (AP)—The Virginia Registration Board for Contractors cracked down on five out-of-state construction companies after they had submitted bids on a multi-million dollar public housing project without first registering with the board. Lawrence M. Cox, executive director of the Norfolk Redevelopment and Housing Authority, said yesterday he had advised the five firms they were not qualified to compete for the contract on 626 public housing units, bids on which will be opened here next Wednesday.

The firms include P. Mallonee of Valley Stream, N. Y.

Eugene Conley, Famed American Tenor, Will Begin Community Concert Series

Eugene Conley, the American tenor who was twice cited for special roles at the Metropolitan Opera last season, will open this year's Community Concert Association series Wednesday, Oct. 14, 8:30 p. m., at Kingston High School. As celebrated in recital as opera, Conley is a frequent guest on radio-TV's prestige musical program, Voice of Firestone; is a Londan FFRR recording artist; and in pictures he sang the voice of Faust in the Italian motion picture of that opera.

Born in Lynn, Mass., of Irish-English ancestory, Conley had the normal boyhood of the average American boy. He belonged to the Boy Scouts, played on the high school baseball team, was soloist in the high school glee club and sang in several local churches. It was not until after he left high school that he began thinking of a singing career. He joined the Boston Male Choir and toured the country with it. This led to engagements with other singing and orchestral units and finally the National Broadsacting Company featured him on a program of his own called NBC Presents Eugene Conley.

Cited as One of Great Tenors

His operatic debut was as the Duke in Rigoletto and he was such a success that he went on tour with the San Carlo Opera Company and sang with several other summer opera companies.

Following his discharge from the army air force with which he served in World War 2, Conley resumed his singing career with transcontinental concert tours and appearances with the New York City Center Opera Company. He accepted invitations to sing in many of the musical centers of Europe and in Stockholm where he was the first American to sing at the Royal Opera House since 1939, he was hailed as one of the great tenors of today.

Accordingly, La Scala Opera House in Milan especially revived I Puritani for Conley during the 1949-50 season. Ten days later he made his Metropolitan debut. He was re-engaged by La Scala in December, 1951, becoming the first U. S. born and trained tenor to open the regular La Scala season when he sang the tenor lead in I Vespri Siciliani. In 1952 he performed at the Teatro Colon in Buenos Aires.

Toscanini's Choice for Missa Solemnis

Last season he was chosen to sing the role of the Rake in the Metropolitan's premiere of The Rake's Progress; and as Rodolfo in the world premiere of the Met's newly staged production of La Boheme. Toscanini presented him in the leading tenor part of Beethoven's Missa Solemnis with the NBC Symphony Orchestra last spring.

When not busy with his music, Conley likes nothing better than to go out with his camera to see what he can snap. He is married to one of the country's leading contraltos, Winifred Heidt.

For the Kingston concert Marcel Frank will be the accompanist. The program will include:

Where'er You Walk from Semele, Handel; Sound an Alarm, from Juda Maccabaeus, Handel; On Wings of Song and Spring Song, Mendelssohn; Nichts (Nothing) and Heimliche Aufforderung (Lover's Pledge) by Strauss; Aria —Il mio tesoro (My Beloved) from Don Giovanni, Mozart.

Aria — Recondita armonia (Strange Harmony) from Tosca and Che gelida manina (Thy Hand Is Frozen) from La Boheme, Puccini.

Floods of Spring and To the Children, Rachmaninoff; The Garden Where the Praties Grow, arr. Liddle; Beloved (based on Rubenstein's Romance) arr. Conley-Frank.

Aria—Parmi veder le lagrime (Each Tear that Falls) and La donna e mobile (Woman is Fickle) both from Rigoletto, Verdi.

THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON

October, 1, 1953

TO THE NEWSPAPERS OF THE NATION:

National Newspaper Week prompts us all to renew our awareness of the remarkable national service rendered daily by the newspapers of America.

Our free press does more than tell our people the history of our times. It explains that history, interprets it, and, so doing, often helps to create that history.

A free press and a free society are essentially one. As the press can know freedom only in a democratic state, so democracy itself is fortified by a free press.

This strengthening of our society is, of course, the anti-thesis of the ignoble service performed by the press of totalitarian countries. The effectiveness of a free press is virtually to be measured by the integrity, candor and responsibility of its criticism.

On this occasion I am happy to send warm greetings to the reporters, editors and publishers of our Nation's newspapers. I know—as they must themselves—that they are custodians of a majestic trust, a solemn responsibility: to help arm our people with the knowledge and understanding without which free choice, free government, free men could not be.

Experiments Near End

New York, Oct. 1 (AP)—Experiments on a new type radar system are nearing completion in the Polar region. The system is designed to give at least six hours of warning should enemy aircraft approach via the North Pole. The Western Electric Co., handling radar work under government contract, reported yesterday that the initial installations are near Barter Island, Alaska, about 1,200 miles from the Pole.

Negotiations Are Begun

Bonn, Germany, Oct. 1 (AP)—West Germany and the United States started negotiating a new treaty of friendship, commerce and navigation today. It will replace the 1923 German-American treaty declared void in World War 2. The 1923 pact was reinstated last June 3 pending completion of a new treaty.

WALLKILL NEWS

Wallkill, Sept. 30—At a special meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary of Rose-Sheeley Post, 1034, Wallkill, the following officers were installed for the year 1953-54: President, Evelyn Lawson; first vice-president, Grace Holland; second vice-president, Marie Flockhart; secretary, Olive VanDemark; treasurer, Vera Prisco; chaplain, Mae Terwilliger; sergeant-at-arms, Mabel Almquist; historian, Gertrude Cameron. The installing officer was Dorothy Wickes, a past president of the organization. A past president's pin was presented to Mildred Harris, the outgoing president, and she was commended for her fine work. The gavel was presented to the new president, Evelyn Lawson, who in an acceptance speech asked for the continued cooperation of the members. Mrs. Flockhart and Mrs. Almquist, co-chairmen of the merchandising club announced that a new club is now forming. The new president also appointed committees for the coming year. A complete list will be published at a later date. At the close of the installation ceremonies a social hour with refreshments was enjoyed.

The first fall meeting of the Wallkill Parents Club was held Thursday, Sept. 24, at the Central School Auditorium with more than 100 parents attending. Mrs. Charles Beattie, club president, presided over the business meeting. A pennant was presented to Mr. Stantial's 5th grade for having the highest parent representation at the meeting. New faculty members were presented to the gathering after which Mrs. Beattie expressed her gratitude to all of the standing committees who will assist her in this year's work. She also stated that Mrs. Chester Howard is program chairman for the year and the programs have been planned for the interest of both grade school and high school parents, as well as teachers. The meeting was then turned over to Vincent DeAngelis program chairman for the evening. The group retired to the gymnasium, where they enjoyed a round robin get acquainted game, meeting a number of parents and friends. Following this, the Amphion Glee Club Octet under the direction of A. Milton Loth, presented a varied program of music. Refreshments were served, after which the entire group enjoyed square dancing. It has been announced that beginning Nov. 5, the regular meetings will be on the first Thursday of each month.

U. S. Lien Takes Haymes' Salary

Phildelphia, Oct. 1 (AP)—Singer Dick Haymes' two-a-night performances at a night club here will benefit nobody except the U. S. Government and his employers.

The eastern Pennsylvania district Internal Revenue office yesterday slapped a lien on Haymes' salary—reported to be $7,500 a week for the 10-day engagement. District Director Joseph Mayer said the California office had requested his office to collect $9,600 in back income taxes owed by the singer.

Haymes, who is commuting daily between Philadelphia and Greenwich, Conn., where his bride of a week, film star Rita Hayworth, is living, said he didn't know what it's all about.

"If it's a valid debt, I'll be glad to give them a thousand a week to pay it off," he said. "But I would like to get enough out of this engagement to pay my help."

The government isn't the only one that's trying to get money from the Argentine-born singer. His attorney, Robert Eaton, said in Los Angeles Monday that claims from his client's creditors filled eight typewritten pages, that the singer owed $55,000 in taxes, and that his smallest debt was $2.50 to a drug store.

The first newspaper in North Dakota appeared in Bismarck in 1873.

WALLKILL NEWS

Wallkill, Sept. 30—At a special meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary of Rose-Sheeley Post, 1034, Wallkill, the following officers were installed for the year 1953-54: President, Evelyn Lawson; first vice-president, Grace Holland; second vice-president, Marie Flockhart; secretary, Olive VanDemark; treasurer, Vera Prisco; chaplain, Mae Terwilliger; sergeant-at-arms, Mabel Almquist; historian, Gertrude Cameron. The installing officer was Dorothy Wickes, a past president of the organization. A past president's pin was presented to Mildred Harris, the outgoing president, and she was commended for her fine work. The gavel was presented to the new president, Evelyn Lawson, who in an acceptance speech asked for the continued cooperation of the members. Mrs. Flockhart and Mrs. Almquist, co-chairmen of the merchandising club announced that a new club is now forming. The new president also appointed committees for the coming year. A complete list will be published at a later date. At the close of the installation ceremonies a social hour with refreshments was enjoyed.

The first fall meeting of the Wallkill Parents Club was held Thursday, Sept. 24, at the Central School Auditorium with more than 100 parents attending. Mrs. Charles Beattie, club president, presided over the business meeting. A pennant was presented to Mr. Stantial's 5th grade for having the highest parent representation at the meeting. New faculty members were presented to the gathering after which Mrs. Beattie expressed her gratitude to all of the standing committees who will assist her in this year's work. She also stated that Mrs. Chester Howard is program chairman for the year and the programs have been planned for the interest of both grade school and high school parents, as well as teachers. The meeting was then turned over to Vincent DeAngelis program chairman for the evening. The group retired to the gymnasium, where they enjoyed a round robin get acquainted game, meeting a number of parents and friends. Following this, the Amphion Glee Club Octet under the direction of A. Milton Loth, presented a varied program of music. Refreshments were served, after which the entire group enjoyed square dancing. It has been announced that beginning Nov. 5, the regular meetings will be on the first Thursday of each month.

U. S. Lien Takes Haymes' Salary

Phildelphia, Oct. 1 (AP)—Singer Dick Haymes' two-a-night performances at a night club here will benefit nobody except the U. S. Government and his employers.

The eastern Pennsylvania district Internal Revenue office yesterday slapped a lien on Haymes' salary—reported to be $7,500 a week for the 10-day engagement. District Director Joseph Mayer said the California office had requested his office to collect $9,600 in back income taxes owed by the singer.

Haymes, who is commuting daily between Philadelphia and Greenwich, Conn., where his bride of a week, film star Rita Hayworth, is living, said he didn't know what it's all about.

"If it's a valid debt, I'll be glad to give them a thousand a week to pay it off," he said. "But I would like to get enough out of this engagement to pay my help."

The government isn't the only one that's trying to get money from the Argentine-born singer. His attorney, Robert Eaton, said in Los Angeles Monday that claims from his client's creditors filled eight typewritten pages, that the singer owed $55,000 in taxes, and that his smallest debt was $2.50 to a drug store.

The first newspaper in North Dakota appeared in Bismarck in 1873.

RUDE SISTER-IN-LAW

A letter this morning explains: "I have a sister-in law who, every time I call and invite her to dinner or any other party, never gives me a definite answer but always says she will call me back in a day or two. I think this is very rude and I always feel that she has to have time to think it over before accepting. It seems to me that she should know whether or not she has another engagement for that evening and that she should either accept or decline when asked. Perhaps I am being oversensitive, but it annoys me every time she does it and I am almost tempted not to invite her again. I would like very much to have your opinion."

I agree with you thoroughly, and I think, in fact, I might be tempted to go so far as not to invite her again.

Guest Prize

Dear Mrs. Post: While visiting a friend in another city, she gave a bridge party in my honor. A prize was given for highest score. The person who won the prize turned it over to me. I was quite taken back at this procedure and refused to accept it. She said that it was customary to turn the prize over to the guest of honor. However, I could not see this at all as the prize was rightfully hers, and I would not take it. Now I am wondering if I was rude in refusing it. Will you please tell me what I should have done?

Answer: I agree with your point of view of the prize thoroughly, but since you were told it was the custom of the locality it would have been correct to follow their established custom rather than repudiate it. (When in Rome do as the Romans do!)

Wedding Announcements

Dear Mrs. Post: I live in the East and my parents in the South. I was married here recently with just the immediate families present. I would like to send out wedding announcements to those who were not invited to the wedding. Must these announcements be mailed from my parents' home town (they will be issued in their names), or may they be postmarked from here?

The postmark is of no importance.

Mrs. Post's leaflet E-13, "Showers," includes helpful suggestions for various kinds of showers—for the bride, the new-born baby, and the new neighbor. Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents to Dept. EP, c/o The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

RUDE SISTER-IN-LAW

A letter this morning explains: "I have a sister-in law who, every time I call and invite her to dinner or any other party, never gives me a definite answer but always says she will call me back in a day or two. I think this is very rude and I always feel that she has to have time to think it over before accepting. It seems to me that she should know whether or not she has another engagement for that evening and that she should either accept or decline when asked. Perhaps I am being oversensitive, but it annoys me every time she does it and I am almost tempted not to invite her again. I would like very much to have your opinion."

I agree with you thoroughly, and I think, in fact, I might be tempted to go so far as not to invite her again.

Guest Prize

Dear Mrs. Post: While visiting a friend in another city, she gave a bridge party in my honor. A prize was given for highest score. The person who won the prize turned it over to me. I was quite taken back at this procedure and refused to accept it. She said that it was customary to turn the prize over to the guest of honor. However, I could not see this at all as the prize was rightfully hers, and I would not take it. Now I am wondering if I was rude in refusing it. Will you please tell me what I should have done?

Answer: I agree with your point of view of the prize thoroughly, but since you were told it was the custom of the locality it would have been correct to follow their established custom rather than repudiate it. (When in Rome do as the Romans do!)

Wedding Announcements

Dear Mrs. Post: I live in the East and my parents in the South. I was married here recently with just the immediate families present. I would like to send out wedding announcements to those who were not invited to the wedding. Must these announcements be mailed from my parents' home town (they will be issued in their names), or may they be postmarked from here?

The postmark is of no importance.

Mrs. Post's leaflet E-13, "Showers," includes helpful suggestions for various kinds of showers—for the bride, the new-born baby, and the new neighbor. Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents to Dept. EP, c/o The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Salvation Army's Fund Drive Opens On Monday Night

Frederic Snyder, local commentator, will address workers in the local Salvation Army finance campaign at the kick-off dinner Monday night. Brigadier Frederick Nelson, of the national Salvation Army staff, also will speak at the 6:30 p. m. dinner at the George Washington School.

This year's campaign, under the general chairmanship of S. James Matthews, has set a goal of $8,000 in order to continue local benefactions of the Salvation Army. Matthews, assisted by Vice Chairman Harold Keator, Jr., William S. Keyser, and Edwin M. Ford, has set up one of the largest campaign organizations in several years. Mrs. Robert Ortale will head the home solicitation groups, John T. Groves chairmans the Initial Gifts Committee, William W. Ewing will supervise industrial contributions, and N. Jansen Fowler heads a committee for solicitation of fraternal and trade organizations.

Two-Week Campaign

The two-week finance campaign, scheduled to run from Oct. 5 to Oct. 19, also will touch every segment of retail trade in the quest of contributions. Matthews has named the following prominent businessmen as captains of the groups named:

Louis G. Bruhn, attorneys; Dr. Elbert F. MacFadden, Jr., doctors; Dr. John A. Comstock, dentists; John L. MacKinnon, chiropractors; Lawrence J. MacAvery, realtors; Robert B. O'Reilly, accountants; John E. Jordan, insurance; Emil G. Boessneck, auto dealers; George W. Schneider, jewelers; Albert C. Flanagan, clothiers; Kenneth J. MacCollam, pharmacists; Herbert K. Greenwald, shoe dealers; Pratt Boice, bankers; George J. Silkworth, milk dealers; John Shults, appliance dealers; John Schleede, produce dealers; Richard Jones, farm supplies; Herman La Tour, beverage dealers and Nicholas La Lima, barbers.

Financial Need Acute

Matthews pointed out that the last Salvation Army campaign took place about 18 months ago and that the organization has developed an acute need for funds as they have operated during that time on what would normally be budgeted for a year's expenditures.

"It is unthinkable that the Salvation Army, a non-sectarian organization performing a unique welfare program in our local community, should be hampered through the lack of sufficient funds. I therefore appeal to everyone of our Kingston citizens to participate in every possible phase of this campaign," Matthews said in his initial appeal of the campaign.

Two Are Held For Poughkeepsie On Theft Counts

Victor Ryan Harrell, 23, of Montgomery, Ala., and William Thomas Alphine, 22, of Charlotte, N. C., who were turned over to Poughkeepsie police on Tuesday after completion of 62-day sentences here on unlawful entry convictions, face Dutchess county grand jury action on charges of attempted robbery in the first degree, Poughkeepsie police said today.

The men are accused of trying to wrest a pocketbook from a Poughkeepsie woman in front of 110 Mansion street about 9:30 p. m., July 29, police said. The woman succeeded in holding on to her pocketbook during a reported scuffle and the men fled when she screamed, according to the report.

Harrell and Alphine on Tuesday were sentenced by County Judge John M. Cashin to terms of 62 days—the time they had already served—when they pleaded guilty to unlawful entry charges for which they were arrested by Ulster county sheriff's men on July 30. The Poughkeepsie detainer had been on file at the sheriff's office along with one from Florida, it was reported in court at the time.

Synagogue News

Temple Emanuel

Temple Emanuel, 50 Abeel street, Herbert I. Bloom, Ph.D., rabbi—Services will be held Friday at 7:45 p. m. with music under the direction of Cantor Julian Lohre. Rabbi Bloom's theme will be The Law and Life. Sunday school and children's observance of the Simchas Torah will be held Sunday at 10 a. m. Hebrew class will meet in the Jewish Community Center after school Wednesday, Oct. 7.

Little Change Noted

Washington, Oct. 1 (AP)—The Labor Department reported today that strike activity changed relatively little between July and August. The department's Bureau of Labor Statistics said there were 674 strikes involving 400,000 workers in August. This compared with 700 walkouts in July idling 410,000 workers. The resulting idleness was measured at 2,800,000 man days in August compared with an even three million in July. A man day is the time of one man for one day.

Personal Notes

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Grant of 140 Henry street are celebrating their 10th anniversary today.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Willt of 116 TenBroeck avenue have just returned from a vacation trip on which they visited their daughter and son-in-law, Pfc. and Mrs. Elwood Harper of El Paso, Texas and also their son, Pfc. William Willt of Albuquerque, New Mexico. They were accompanied on the trip by Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius H. Krause of 112 TenBroeck avenue and Miss Sally Cooper of 158 Market street, Saugerties.

William B. DuBois, Jr., is attending State Teachers College at Oneonta. He played KHS and DUSO basketball during 1952-53. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William B. DuBois, Sr., of 707 Broadway.

Mrs. Ella England of the Woodstock Hotel, New York, is stopping at the Governor Clinton Hotel for a short visit with her friends in this area. She is a former resident of Kingston.

Mrs. George H. DuBois of 21 Linderman avenue is spending a few days with her niece, Mrs. Peter Stock of Worcester, Mass.

Mrs. Charles Andrews of 96 Fairmont avenue is a patient at the Kingston Hospital where she is recovering from a recent illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Van Kleeck of 7 Esopus avenue are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son, Stephen Francis, Tuesday, Sept. 29 at the Benedictine Hospital. Mrs. Van Kleeck is the former Mary Weierich, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert J. Weierich of this city.

Thruway Route

ready for execution before the end of 1954 or possibly later, the state engineer said.

Will Use Bottlenecks

This means that traffic to and from the express highway will travel through the city's bottle necks for several months or perhaps more than a year. The one advantage, until the arterial route is completed, will be the elimination of heavy truck travel over city streets because of travel on the thruway.

J. S. Bixby, district engineer of the New York State Department of Public Works, stationed at Poughkeepsie, said today that plans for the Kingston arterial route connection had been submitted for review by him within the past 10 days. They included the proposed connection of the arterial route with Broadway near Albany avenue, but this, he said, does not mean that the plan, at this point, is the most likely to be accepted.

Must Be Apporved

All arterial route plans where a municipality is concerned, he said, must have local as well as state approval, and this fact often causes delay in the execution of plans. Once in Poughkeepsie, Bixby said, the city delayed the state for five years before approving a plan.

Much preliminary work must be done in Kingston, he said, with consideration of other streets in the city, before the final plan is decided upon, and there are many factors to be considered as to the effect of thruway traffic on the city.

A spur connecting the express highway with Route 28 is expected to be opened before winter. This will mean through travel between here and Catskill and traffic over that small section of the route might serve as a percentage indication of the effect of full throughway traffic in the city when the entire route is opened.

Dancers, Chorines Strike

New York, Oct. 1 (AP)—Featured dancers and chorus girls went on strike last night after the first shows in the 10 night clubs on W. 52nd street between 5th and 6th avenues. Most of the spots were emptied when patrons learned there would be no feminine charms at the midnight and 2 a. m. shows. The walkout grew from a dispute between club owners and the American Guild of Variety Artists. Union spokesmen have alleged that individual contracts with top performers have failed to include standard welfare benefits. There was no management statement.

Soviet Building Program Riddled by Inefficiency

(Here is a revealing look into Soviet construction methods—for both buildings and roads. It is given by an AP correspondent who spent nine years in the Soviet Union. This is the fourth in a series.)

By TOM WHITNEY

London, Oct. 1 (AP)—I was out for a walk in Moscow one autumn night a few years ago. My meditations were interrupted by a roar and a crash. Across the street a cloud of dust and plaster arose. People ran from all directions.

It was easy to see what had happened. A fine Soviet building—fine by Soviet standards—stood opposite me. Three floors up there used to be a balcony. The balcony had simply fallen off the front of the building.

One does not have to be an expert to realize that most of the buildings are poorly constructed and that almost the whole construction industry is inefficient and antiquated. You can see this in watching new buildings go up. Or you can walk up to an older building and start guessing when it was built. An American might guess 50 years; the cornerstone will show it was erected 8 or maybe 15 years ago. But it already looks old. The work was poor. The building is dirty.

Old Before Finished

Some buildings in Moscow look years old even before they are finished.

Most are built of brick. But the builders do not have facing brick. Instead they cover over the surface with plaster.

The plaster sometimes starts falling off before the building is even finished. Even when it stays on it does not look good. It is usually painted with some sort of plaster paint—often in a pastel shade. This surface collects the dirt. Within a few months it looks bad.

There are many brick buildings which were intended to have a plaster facing but never got it. They look even worse.

Soviet architectural design is not generally good. Architects tend to put a lot of ornate decoration—gingerbread—on buildings. Most of this is poorly conceived, almost all of it poorly executed.

Has Been Improvement

Nevertheless there has been considerable improvement in the qualty of work in the postwar years. A good many steel frame structures are going up. Many are using reinforced concrete block for walls. New ceramic facing materials have been developed which look better than anything the Russians have used heretofore. There has been emphasis on simplicity of design in the interest of economy. The extensive use of construction machinery has lowered building costs.

All these are healthy tendencies but the Russians have a long way to go. I lived in an apartment house completed in 1951 with 72 apartments for foreigners.

Space Is Wasted

Much space was wasted. In our apartment a long corridor could have been used to enlarge the three small rooms. No central hot water system was provided. The gas and water were partly exposed; so was some of the wiring. The double windows were poorly fitted, and a draft came through them.

There were no wall closets, necessitating the purchase of expensive wardrobes. The children had no playground. There was no laundry room. The heat in some of the apartments was inadequate. Sometimes the elevator did not work.

And this was for Moscow an excellent apartment building!

Elevator Didn't Work

The new American embassy building was completed only last spring. When the embassy moved in, having put its offices on the 9th and 10th floors at the very top, it discovered the single small elevator did not work. For weeks the ambassador, the minister, the counselor, the first secretaries, and all the rest trouped up to their work. When I left Moscow this elevator was still one of the more uncertain things in Moscow diplomatic life.

Almost all new houses built outside cities are still log cabins, the same as houses built in Russia 600 years ago. They are well-built in the sense that the pine logs are carefully fitted. In between the logs there is moss insulation. They are good warm homes for the Russian winter.

Wood Is Wasted

But they are small and just think of the waste of good wood in them! Each log cabin must have enough to make three fairly large homes if the wood were sawed.

Why is the Soviet building industry so antiquated, inefficient and costly to boot? For one thing, the government does not give the building industry enough attention. It is not putting its best brains and executives to work in this field. Also, construction workers are among the worst paid in the country.

Is construction work on industrial enterprises as bad as that on Moscow housing? I suspect that it is not much better.

One of Russia's greatest curses always has been—and still is—lack of roads.

Highways Are Secret

The statistics on hard-surfaced highways are a state secret. But it is possible to estimate that the entire Soviet Union—one sixth of the world's land surface—has fewer macdam, concrete and even cobblestone motor roads outside cities than any averaged-sized state of the United States.

There are a few more or less modern motor highways. Such for example are the highways from Moscow west to Minsk (built before the war) which has for a considerable part of its distance from four to six lanes, and also that from Moscow south to the Crimea (built sinc the war).

Once off these few main arteries, one makes the acquaintance of the Russian dirt roads. Even when the weather is dry they are frequently impassable for a passenger car because of deep ruts and holes.

The first printing press was imported into this country in 1639.

Dancers, Chorines Strike

New York, Oct. 1 (AP)—Featured dancers and chorus girls went on strike last night after the first shows in the 10 night clubs on W. 52nd street between 5th and 6th avenues. Most of the spots were emptied when patrons learned there would be no feminine charms at the midnight and 2 a. m. shows. The walkout grew from a dispute between club owners and the American Guild of Variety Artists. Union spokesmen have alleged that individual contracts with top performers have failed to include standard welfare benefits. There was no management statement.

Soviet Building Program Riddled by Inefficiency

(Here is a revealing look into Soviet construction methods—for both buildings and roads. It is given by an AP correspondent who spent nine years in the Soviet Union. This is the fourth in a series.)

By TOM WHITNEY

London, Oct. 1 (AP)—I was out for a walk in Moscow one autumn night a few years ago. My meditations were interrupted by a roar and a crash. Across the street a cloud of dust and plaster arose. People ran from all directions.

It was easy to see what had happened. A fine Soviet building—fine by Soviet standards—stood opposite me. Three floors up there used to be a balcony. The balcony had simply fallen off the front of the building.

One does not have to be an expert to realize that most of the buildings are poorly constructed and that almost the whole construction industry is inefficient and antiquated. You can see this in watching new buildings go up. Or you can walk up to an older building and start guessing when it was built. An American might guess 50 years; the cornerstone will show it was erected 8 or maybe 15 years ago. But it already looks old. The work was poor. The building is dirty.

Old Before Finished

Some buildings in Moscow look years old even before they are finished.

Most are built of brick. But the builders do not have facing brick. Instead they cover over the surface with plaster.

The plaster sometimes starts falling off before the building is even finished. Even when it stays on it does not look good. It is usually painted with some sort of plaster paint—often in a pastel shade. This surface collects the dirt. Within a few months it looks bad.

There are many brick buildings which were intended to have a plaster facing but never got it. They look even worse.

Soviet architectural design is not generally good. Architects tend to put a lot of ornate decoration—gingerbread—on buildings. Most of this is poorly conceived, almost all of it poorly executed.

Has Been Improvement

Nevertheless there has been considerable improvement in the qualty of work in the postwar years. A good many steel frame structures are going up. Many are using reinforced concrete block for walls. New ceramic facing materials have been developed which look better than anything the Russians have used heretofore. There has been emphasis on simplicity of design in the interest of economy. The extensive use of construction machinery has lowered building costs.

All these are healthy tendencies but the Russians have a long way to go. I lived in an apartment house completed in 1951 with 72 apartments for foreigners.

Space Is Wasted

Much space was wasted. In our apartment a long corridor could have been used to enlarge the three small rooms. No central hot water system was provided. The gas and water were partly exposed; so was some of the wiring. The double windows were poorly fitted, and a draft came through them.

There were no wall closets, necessitating the purchase of expensive wardrobes. The children had no playground. There was no laundry room. The heat in some of the apartments was inadequate. Sometimes the elevator did not work.

And this was for Moscow an excellent apartment building!

Elevator Didn't Work

The new American embassy building was completed only last spring. When the embassy moved in, having put its offices on the 9th and 10th floors at the very top, it discovered the single small elevator did not work. For weeks the ambassador, the minister, the counselor, the first secretaries, and all the rest trouped up to their work. When I left Moscow this elevator was still one of the more uncertain things in Moscow diplomatic life.

Almost all new houses built outside cities are still log cabins, the same as houses built in Russia 600 years ago. They are well-built in the sense that the pine logs are carefully fitted. In between the logs there is moss insulation. They are good warm homes for the Russian winter.

Wood Is Wasted

But they are small and just think of the waste of good wood in them! Each log cabin must have enough to make three fairly large homes if the wood were sawed.

Why is the Soviet building industry so antiquated, inefficient and costly to boot? For one thing, the government does not give the building industry enough attention. It is not putting its best brains and executives to work in this field. Also, construction workers are among the worst paid in the country.

Is construction work on industrial enterprises as bad as that on Moscow housing? I suspect that it is not much better.

One of Russia's greatest curses always has been—and still is—lack of roads.

Highways Are Secret

The statistics on hard-surfaced highways are a state secret. But it is possible to estimate that the entire Soviet Union—one sixth of the world's land surface—has fewer macdam, concrete and even cobblestone motor roads outside cities than any averaged-sized state of the United States.

There are a few more or less modern motor highways. Such for example are the highways from Moscow west to Minsk (built before the war) which has for a considerable part of its distance from four to six lanes, and also that from Moscow south to the Crimea (built sinc the war).

Once off these few main arteries, one makes the acquaintance of the Russian dirt roads. Even when the weather is dry they are frequently impassable for a passenger car because of deep ruts and holes.

The first printing press was imported into this country in 1639.

Miss Doris Dixon Of Saugerties Is Bride on Sunday

Miss Doris M. Dixon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Dixon of 120 West Bridge street, Saugerties, became the bride of Theodore A. Muskovitch, son of Mrs. Bernice Muskovitch of Cementon, and the late Theodore Muskovitch, Sunday, Sept, 27, at 2 p. m. in St. Mary's Church, Saugerties. The Rev. Matthew F. Malloy, assistant pastor, performed the ceremony.

The organist was Mrs. William Plimley, and Mrs. Theresa Nau, soloist, sang Ave Maria and Panis Angelicus. The altar was decorated with white gladioli.

Escorted by her father, the bride was attired in a gown of imported white lace over satin, with a fitted bodice having long pointed sleeves and a coronation neckline outlined in seed pearls and sequins. The full gathered skirt terminated in a cathedral train. Her fingertip veil of silk illusion was secured to a cap of seed pearls and iridescent sequins. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses with ivy.

Miss Jeanine Dixon, the honor attendant, wore a floor length gown of gold taffeta, with sculptured pleats at the neckline and bodice, and a bouffant skirt. Her headpiece consisted of an afternoon veil trimmed with bronze pompons and she carried a cascade bouquet of gold and bronze pompons.

The attendants, Miss Mary Jane Dixon and Mrs. Paul Zmiyarch, were attired in gowns of mink taffeta, while Phyllis Breithaupt, as flower gorl, wore a maize taffeta frock. Their headpieces and flowers were similar to that of the honor attendant.

John Mackiwitch was the best man. Serving as ushers were John Dixon, Jr., and Robert Gardner.

Following the ceremony a reception was held for 200 guests.

For a wedding trip to Canada, the bride chose an ensemble of beige wool with a corsage of yellow roses.

The bride is a graduate of Saugerties High School and is employed by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company in Kingston.

The bridegroom served in the navy during World War 2 and is employed at the North American Cement Plant.

They plan to make their future home at 10 Cedar street, Saugerties.

Entertainer Fined

Chicago, Oct. 1 (AP)—Hal Block, radio and television figure, was convicted of speeding and driving without a driver's license Wednesday, and was fined a total of $30 by Municipal Judge George B. Weiss. The 40-year-old entertainer said he had had "one or two beers" before he was arrested. He testified he increased his speed because he believed another car was following his and he feared a holdup.

How to know Beans

WHEEL-CHAIR BEANS

This is a picture of beans that have wasted their youth. They were picked too late and no longer have the snap a young bean has—they put up an almost rubbery resistance when you try to break them into bits. And they have a chewy toughness when cooked. Frozen beans like this have only one virtue—they are cheaper. People eat them in glum silence.

SPRIGHTLY BEANS

You can tell they left home young—at their juiciest best. Bend one the least bit and he'll snap so quickly you'll blink. Cook beans like this and sample them—so crispy tender they almost disappear before you can put the bite on 'em. Tender, luscious green beans like this are the only kind you get when you buy Dulany Frozen Beans—and are they worth asking for!

NOW you know beans!

Miss Doris M. Dixon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Dixon of 120 West Bridge street, Saugerties, became the bride of Theodore A. Muskovitch, son of Mrs. Bernice Muskovitch of Cementon, and the late Theodore Muskovitch, Sunday, Sept. 27, at 2 p. m. in St. Mary's Church, Saugerties. The Rev. Matthew F. Malloy, assistant pastor, performed the ceremony.

Escorted by her father, the bride was attired in a gown of imported white lace over satin, with a fitted bodice having long pointed sleeves and a coronation neckline outlined in seed pearls and sequins. The full gathered skirt terminated in a cathedral train. Her fingertip veil of silk illusion was secured to a cap of seed pearls and iridescent sequins. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses with ivy.

Miss Jeanine Dixon, the honor attendant, wore a floor length gown of gold taffeta, with sculptured pleats at the neckline and bodice, and a bouffant skirt. Her headpiece consisted of an afternoon veil trimmed with bronze pompons and she carried a cascade bouquet of gold and bronze pompons.

John Mackiwitch was the best man. Serving as ushers were John Dixon, Jr., and Robert Gardner.

Following the ceremony a reception was held for 200 guests.

For a wedding trip to Canada, the bride chose an ensemble of beige wool with a corsage of yellow roses.

The bride is a graduate of Saugerties High School and is employed by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company in Kingston.

The bridegroom served in the navy during World War 2 and is employed at the North American Cement Plant.

They plan to make their future home at 10 Cedar street, Saugerties.

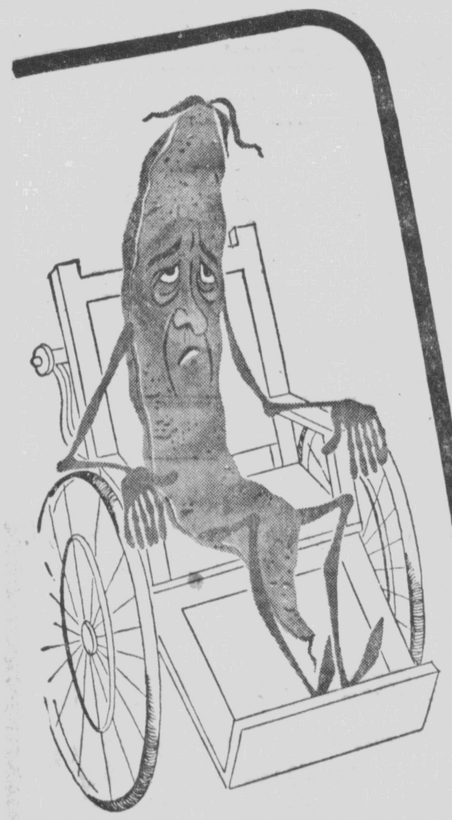
How to know Beans



WHEEL-CHAIR BEANS

This is a picture of beans that have wasted their youth. They were picked too late and no longer have the snap a young bean has—they put up an almost rubbery resistance when you try to break them into bits. And they have a chewy toughness when cooked. Frozen beans like this have only one virtue—they are cheaper. People eat them in glum silence.

SPRIGHTLY BEANS

You can tell they left home young—at their juiciest best. Bend one the least bit and he'll snap so quickly you'll blink. Cook beans like this and sample them—so crispy tender they almost disappear before you can put the bite on 'em. Tender, luscious green beans like this are the only kind you get when you buy Dulany Frozen Beans—and are they worth asking for!

NOW you know beans!

Campanella's Injury May Have Sealed Dodgers' Doom in Series

Yankees Strut Own HR Power in Taking 9 to 5 Opening Win

New York, Oct. 1 (AP)—The team which has been widely acclaimed as the greatest hitting outfit in modern National League annals, namely the Brooklyn Dodgers, had taken to bunting against the New York Yankees at the outset of the 1953 World Series, and so after this you can expect almost anything to happen.

Actually, the main question after that three hour and 10 minute exhibition they struggled through yesterday is whether the two clubs can last it out. The Yankees are out in front yodelling that old favorite to the effect that anything you can do they can do better.

When the Dodgers started hitting home runs, the Yankees replied in kind. When the Dodgers belted Allie Reynolds from the hill and pulled abreast at 5-5, the world champions came alive again and knocked out their decisive 9-5 victory, going away. You don't know how or when Casey Stengel's star-struck athletes are going to do it. You only know that it will happen.

Three Subjects Vital

As the gathered baseball clan discussed the situation far into the night, three subjects were uppermost. The first concerned the mental gymnastics of Manager Charlie Dressen of Brooklyn in ordering two straight bunts when his team was threatening to break the contest wide open. The second had to do with the throwing hand of Roy Campanella, the Brooklyn catcher, and the third with Allie Reynolds' aching back.

Whether Dressen guessed right or wrong in the clutch will never be known. Whether Campanella will be able to operate at something approaching 100 per cent of capacity in the remaining games of the classic could well mean the difference between a Yankee sweep and such a tingling seven-game thriller as the same two teams waged a year ago.

The squat Brooklyn backstop was struck on the outside fat of his right hand by one of Reynolds' fast balls at the start of the second inning. For the remainder of the game Campanella could grip neither his bat nor the ball snugly. His late peg to second in the eighth inning enabled Billy Martin to effect the steal that set off the three-run Yankee rally that sealed Brooklyn's doom.

Campy Says He's Ready

Last night the hand was swollen, and Campanella refused to have an X-ray made. He said it would make no difference, that he intended to play in today's game, whatever the cost.

All year the Dodgers have gone as Campanella went. When he was coming through with his long hits in the climatic stages of their big games, Dressen's men won. When Campanella was in a slump the Dodgers were just another ball club. If he is seriously handicapped from here on, you may start measuring Stengel for his five-time halo.

The question of whether Charlie Dressen proved himself something less than a genius in ordering two straight batters to bunt in the seventh inning yesterday still was wide open.

The situation was this. The Dodgers, trailing by 4-5, got busy on old Chew Tobacco Johnny Sain at the outset of the seventh and, by chopping three straight singles just over or through the Yankee infield, pushed across the tying run and had runners on first and second with nobody out.

Problem for Dressen

But Dressen faced a problem. The very bottom of his batting order was up—Billy Cox No. 8 and Clem Labine, his third pitcher, No. 9. The Brooklyn pilot had either to go for a big inning or to try to move the leading run around to third. He chose the latter, and it backfired.

Cox bunted and both Sain and catcher Yogi Berra sprang into action as though they had been catapulted. Yogi reached the dribbler first and threw to Gil McDougald at third as Gil Hodges went tearing in. It was close but umpire Art Gore ruled it a put-out. Some thought it could have been called the other way, and Dressen danced in pain in the coach's box.

Then Labine tried it, too, and this time Berra pegged Carl Furillo out at third with a stride to spare. Junior Gilliam then sent up a pop foul to Berra.

It is idle, of course, to speculate what might have happened had Dressen played things differently. Cox might have hit into a double play. A pinchhitter for Labine might have done no better than Clem did, and the fact remains that Sain and his unsung sidekick, Joe Collins, banged across four more big runs after that. But the inning was about all the boys had to argue over.

Erskine Lathered

Carl Erskine, presumably Brooklyn's best, could not survive past the first inning, in which the Yankees lathered him for four runs.

Reynolds, the Yankee bellwether, departed in the sixth after his back had broken down and he had been scalped by three home runs. The Chief said it may have ended his series work. Stengel, however, was optimistic that the big Indian might be available for a few innings of relief work, if needed.

On the law of averages, today's game should be better. Both Ed Lopat of the Yanks and Elwin (Preacher) Roe of the Brooks are eminent and sagacious lefthanders whose fast balls have long since departed but who possess fine control of their dipsy-doos.

Yanks Take Win In Stride; Case Praises Dodgers

New York, Oct. 1 (AP)—Grizzled Casey Stengel, manager of the New York Yankees, admitted "the boys played pretty good," after the Yanks' victory over Brooklyn yesterday in the opening game of the 1953 World Series, but there was a tone of respect in his voice for the Dodgers.

Stengel, in quest of an unprecedented fifth straight world championship, praised the National League flag-winners.

"They know how to play ball," he said. "They can execute plays. You gotta be alive to play 'em. We got two good clubs."

The Yankee dressing room was comparatively quiet and there was little jubilation. The players, taking the victory in stride, simply smiled about starting the series on the right foot and settled down to showering and dressing.

Stengel expressed pleasure with the relief job of Johnny Sain, who took over the hurling when Allie Reynolds was removed and received credit for the victory. "The more he pitched the better he got," said Casey.

Dodgers Not Downcast

The Dodgers were solemn, but they were not downcast.

"It was great the way the fellows came back after being down four runs," explained Jackie Robinson. "That means a lot. I think we can take 'em now if I can be of any help."

Manager Charlie Dressen of the Brooks thought that the close play at third base in the seventh inning was the turning point of the game.

The score was tied 5-5 and Brooklyn had men on first and second with none out when Billy Cox bunted. Yankee catcher Yogi Berra pounced on the ball and threw to third baseman Gil McDougald, forcing Gil Hodges.

Moans Decision

"All I'm going to say is that it was close," pointed out Dressen. "But if Hodges is safe, it's an entirely different ball game."

Hodges was about the most elated player in the Brooklyn dressing room. After failing to get a hit in 21 at bats in the 1952 series and going 0 for 2 in his first two trips yesterday, the big first baseman snapped his hitless skein with a home run and followed that up with a pair of singles.

He explained that he wasn't pressing or edgy and knew he'd get a hit. "It was like coming out of a nightmare," he remarked. "It was a fast ball, and I knew it was a homer all the way."

Big Inning 'Is Dead' After It Backfires

New York, Oct. 1 (AP)—Did Charley Dressen pull a "rock" when he turned his homer-happy Dodgers into bunting beauties in the seventh inning of the World Series' opening game?

Second guessers say "yes" and that the strategy back-fired into the Yankess' 9-5 victory. Dressen stoutly defends his move and he is backed by seasoned baseball men interviewed on the matter.

The Dodgers, fighting from behind, had tied the score 5-5 after a two-homer binge in the sixth inning and three straight whistling singles in the seventh.

Now it was the top of the seventh with Roy Campanella home, Gil Hodges on second, Carl Furillo on first and none out. Third baseman Billy Cox was the batter.

Berra Erased Flock

Cox dropped a bunt to the left of the plate and Yankee catcher Yogi Berra threw out Hodges on a close play at third. Clem Labine, the third Brooklyn pitcher, also bunted and Berra threw out Furillo at third. Berra then camped under Junior Gilliam's pop foul and the Dodger threat was ended.

"It was a bunt situation," said Dressen, explaining his orders to Cox.

"If the bunt had been successful—that is, if we'd moved Hodges and Furillo to third and second, as intended — then I planned to put in a pinch hitter. Don Thompson, for Labine and bring Russ Meyer in to pitch. When Cox is forced at third, it changes the entire situation. Now I feel I'm forced to stay with Labine, who I figure has the best chance of stopping the Yankees, and let him bat for himself."

Big Inning Aim

"But, Charley," said one observer. "You're going for the big inning."

"No, you're going for the big inning," Dressen replied curtly. "You manage your way and I'll manage mine. I'm going for one run when the score is tied in the seventh inning."

Second guessers argued the situation didn't call for a bunt because Dressen already had used his two best left-handed pinch hitters — Wayne Belardi and George Shuba—and it seemed ridiculous to give the Yankees a "free" out when they're on the ropes.

No Second Guesses

"It's easy to second guess a manager," said General Manager Frank Lane of the Chicago White Sox. "He doesn't get a second guess. He has to make a hair-trigger decision. In Dressen's case I think he made the only one he could make."

Carl Hubbell, former New York Giants' pitcher, agreed. "He had to call for a bunt. It's baseball percentage. If it had worked, nobody would have questioned it. But it didn't work, so there's a rumpus about it."

Babe Herman, the oldtime Dodger outfielder, said: "Dressen is a smart manager. Whatever his idea was, I'd have to go with him."

Added Bucky Harris, manager of the Washington Senators:

"I don't see how anybody could find fault with that strategy. If Dressen had told Cox to hit away and Cox had hit into a double play you'd have heard screams in Brooklyn for months to come—they'd have crucified him."

GOOD LUMBER GOES TO BAT
When Duke Snyder, Hank Bauer, or Roy Campanella step up to home plate it's ten to one he swats out his homer with a bat that took 60 years to make the Big League. That's how long it takes second growth ash, the preferred bat lumber, to grow from seedling to slugger. Because of its fibered resiliency and powerful combatative quality, fully seasoned, second growth ash is always "on the ball."
Our Lumber is "On the Ball" too. Just as second growth ash is the preferred bat builder, seasoned wood is the preferred home builder. It has terrific nail holding power — won't warp, splinter or split. We stock interior and exterior lumber from the select grades down to No. 2 common. We'll recommend the best grade for framing, for woodwork, for any job. Stop in and inspect our stocks. Talk "Lumber" with Lumber Men.

Anything that's made of wood can be made to order in our shop, beautifully and expertly. See us for distinctive cabinets, doors, stairways — from your designs or ours.
No kitchen's a problem to our designers. We'll make cabinets that fit those awkward spaces to a "T". Soundly constructed of fine seasoned lumber that refuses to warp, splinter or split.

Big Inning 'Is Dead' After It Backfires

New York, Oct. 1 (AP)—Did Charley Dressen pull a "rock" when he turned his homer-happy Dodgers into bunting beauties in the seventh inning of the World Series' opening game?

Second guessers say "yes" and that the strategy back-fired into the Yankess' 9-5 victory. Dressen stoutly defends his move and he is backed by seasoned baseball men interviewed on the matter.

The Dodgers, fighting from behind, had tied the score 5-5 after a two-homer binge in the sixth inning and three straight whistling singles in the seventh.

Now it was the top of the seventh with Roy Campanella home, Gil Hodges on second, Carl Furillo on first and none out. Third baseman Billy Cox was the batter.

Berra Erased Flock

Cox dropped a bunt to the left of the plate and Yankee catcher Yogi Berra threw out Hodges on a close play at third. Clem Labine, the third Brooklyn pitcher, also bunted and Berra threw out Furillo at third. Berra then camped under Junior Gilliam's pop foul and the Dodger threat was ended.

"It was a bunt situation," said Dressen, explaining his orders to Cox.

"If the bunt had been successful—that is, if we'd moved Hodges and Furillo to third and second, as intended — then I planned to put in a pinch hitter. Don Thompson, for Labine and bring Russ Meyer in to pitch. When Cox is forced at third, it changes the entire situation. Now I feel I'm forced to stay with Labine, who I figure has the best chance of stopping the Yankees, and let him bat for himself."

Big Inning Aim

"But, Charley," said one observer. "You're going for the big inning."

"No, you're going for the big inning," Dressen replied curtly. "You manage your way and I'll manage mine. I'm going for one run when the score is tied in the seventh inning."

Second guessers argued the situation didn't call for a bunt because Dressen already had used his two best left-handed pinch hitters — Wayne Belardi and George Shuba—and it seemed ridiculous to give the Yankees a "free" out when they're on the ropes.

No Second Guesses

"It's easy to second guess a manager," said General Manager Frank Lane of the Chicago White Sox. "He doesn't get a second guess. He has to make a hair-trigger decision. In Dressen's case I think he made the only one he could make."

Carl Hubbell, former New York Giants' pitcher, agreed. "He had to call for a bunt. It's baseball percentage. If it had worked, nobody would have questioned it. But it didn't work, so there's a rumpus about it."

Babe Herman, the oldtime Dodger outfielder, said: "Dressen is a smart manager. Whatever his idea was, I'd have to go with him."

Added Bucky Harris, manager of the Washington Senators:

"I don't see how anybody could find fault with that strategy. If Dressen had told Cox to hit away and Cox had hit into a double play you'd have heard screams in Brooklyn for months to come—they'd have crucified him."

The oldest person to win in American Bowling Congress medal was Robert Watson of Los Angeles who rolled a 300 game on Oct. 19, 1947, at the age of 70.

Yanks Take Win In Stride; Case Praises Dodgers

New York, Oct. 1 (AP)—Grizzled Casey Stengel, manager of the New York Yankees, admitted "the boys played pretty good," after the Yanks' victory over Brooklyn yesterday in the opening game of the 1953 World Series, but there was a tone of respect in his voice for the Dodgers.

Stengel, in quest of an unprecedented fifth straight world championship, praised the National League flag-winners.

"They know how to play ball," he said. "They can execute plays. You gotta be alive to play 'em. We got two good clubs."

The Yankee dressing room was comparatively quiet and there was little jubilation. The players, taking the victory in stride, simply smiled about starting the series on the right foot and settled down to showering and dressing.

Stengel expressed pleasure with the relief job of Johnny Sain, who took over the hurling when Allie Reynolds was removed and received credit for the victory. "The more he pitched the better he got," said Casey.

Dodgers Not Downcast

The Dodgers were solemn, but they were not downcast.

"It was great the way the fellows came back after being down four runs," explained Jackie Robinson. "That means a lot. I think we can take 'em now if I can be of any help."

Manager Charlie Dressen of the Brooks thought that the close play at third base in the seventh inning was the turning point of the game.

The score was tied 5-5 and Brooklyn had men on first and second with none out when Billy Cox bunted. Yankee catcher Yogi Berra pounced on the ball and threw to third baseman Gil McDougald, forcing Gil Hodges.

Moans Decision

"All I'm going to say is that it was close," pointed out Dressen. "But if Hodges is safe, it's an entirely different ball game."

Hodges was about the most elated player in the Brooklyn dressing room. After failing to get a hit in 21 at bats in the 1952 series and going 0 for 2 in his first two trips yesterday, the big first baseman snapped his hitless skein with a home run and followed that up with a pair of singles.

He explained that he wasn't pressing or edgy and knew he'd get a hit. "It was like coming out of a nightmare," he remarked. "It was a fast ball, and I knew it was a homer all the way."

GOOD LUMBER GOES TO BAT
When Duke Snyder, Hank Bauer, or Roy Campanella step up to home plate it's ten to one he swats out his homer with a bat that took 60 years to make the Big League. That's how long it takes second growth ash, the preferred bat lumber, to grow from seedling to slugger. Because of its fibered resiliency and powerful combatative quality, fully seasoned, second growth ash is always "on the ball."
Our Lumber is "On the Ball" too. Just as second growth ash is the preferred bat builder, seasoned wood is the preferred home builder. It has terrific nail holding power — won't warp, splinter or split. We stock interior and exterior lumber from the select grades down to No. 2 common. We'll recommend the best grade for framing, for woodwork, for any job. Stop in and inspect our stocks. Talk "Lumber" with Lumber Men.

MILLWORK For The LIVING ROOM
Anything that's made of wood can be made to order in our shop, beautifully and expertly. See us for distinctive cabinets, doors, stairways — from your designs or ours.
No kitchen's a problem to our designers. We'll make cabinets that fit those awkward spaces to a "T". Soundly constructed of fine seasoned lumber that refuses to warp, splinter or split.

Defending champion, Mrs. Richard Hellman of Scarsdale, was two strokes back going into today's final 18 holes.

Village Rest, Angel Juniors Cop YMCA Tilts

A couple of close high-scoring frays featured the YMCA "B" Basketball League card Wednesday night with the Village Rest and Angel Juniors taking the decisions.

The Village Rest cagers knocked out a 67 to 58 victory over the 50 Club while the Angels topped Waterous Lumber 68 to 52.

Trailing 18 to 10 at the first quarter, the Villagers found their eye in the middle canto and led at halftime by 34 to 24. They continued to hold the upperhand in the third period and led at the bell by 51 to 38. The 50 Clubbers outscored their opponents by 20-16 in the final quarter but the comeback wasn't enough.

Ferraro Hits 22

Jim Ferraro led the winners with 22 points, high total for the night. Don Ferraro contributed 15. Both Jim Amato and V. Van Bramer hit for 10 apiece. J. Schneider and J. Culjack were high for the losers with 14 and 10 in that order.

W. Fitzgerald emerged as the high scorer of the night in the other attraction as he ripped the cords for 21 markers to lead the Junior Angels to their 68-52 decision. Jack Dawkins trailed with 11. H. Waterous and J. Hilton both amassed 17 markers for the Lumbermen.

The Angels led all the way by taking a 14-8 lead in the first period and hiking it to 36-22 at halftime.

Duke Snider's nine home runs off Cardinal pitching at Ebbets Field this year was a National League record. The previous high for a hitter against one club in one park was eight by Ralph Kiner against Boston in Pittsburgh during the 1947 season.

Outfielder Jerry Lynch, a Yankee farm hand, is making the Bronx brass mighty happy. He led the Piedmont League in hits, doubles, triples, total bases, RBIs and average. He was fourth in homers.

Bratton Cops Decision but Shows Little

Baltimore, Oct. 1 (AP)—Johnny Bratton seemed to have been saving himself last night for the shot he's supposed to get at Kid Gavilan's welterweight title next month.

The No. 2 welter from Chicago showed little to 1,856 persons in the Coliseum and a national (CBS) television audience and was held to a split decision for the second straight time by Al (Sugar) Wilson of Englewood, N. J.

Bratton got the nod from Referee Lee Halfpenny 6-3-1 and Judge Bill Ellis 7-2-1. Judge Jimmy Jones scored it 5-3-2 in favor of Wilson. The AP scorecard had it 5-4-1 for Bratton.

No Contract Signed

Afterward, Manager Hymie Walman said Bratton is slated to try to take back the welter crown from Gavilan on either Nov. 6 or 13. He said uncertainties whether to hold the fight in Chicago or New York are holding up a definite date, although admitting no contract had been signed.

Gavilan has hinted he might surrender the welter title and move up to the middleweights. He took the title from Bratton in 1951.

Bratton weighed 150½, Wilson 148¾.

Ties for Lead

Rye, Oct. 1 (AP)—Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare of Merion, Pa., who once dominated the women's amateur golfing ranks, goes into the second round of her first National Women's Seniors tournament today tied with two others. Mrs. Vare shot a 40-41-81 yesterday in the first round of the 36-hole test to tie for the lead with Mrs. Henri Prunart of Natick, Mass., and Mrs. H. B. Jones of Montpelier, Vt. Both had 41-40-81. Defending champion, Mrs. Richard Hellman of Scarsdale, was two strokes back going into today's final 18 holes.

Village Rest, Angel Juniors Cop YMCA Tilts

A couple of close high-scoring frays featured the YMCA "B" Basketball League card Wednesday night with the Village Rest and Angel Juniors taking the decisions.

The Village Rest cagers knocked out a 67 to 58 victory over the 50 Club while the Angels topped Waterous Lumber 68 to 52.

Trailing 18 to 10 at the first quarter, the Villagers found their eye in the middle canto and led at halftime by 34 to 24. They continued to hold the upperhand in the third period and led at the bell by 51 to 38. The 50 Clubbers outscored their opponents by 20-16 in the final quarter but the comeback wasn't enough.

Ferraro Hits 22

Jim Ferraro led the winners with 22 points, high total for the night. Don Ferraro contributed 15. Both Jim Amato and V. Van Bramer hit for 10 apiece. J. Schneider and J. Culjack were high for the losers with 14 and 10 in that order.

W. Fitzgerald emerged as the high scorer of the night in the other attraction as he ripped the cords for 21 markers to lead the Junior Angels to their 68-52 decision. Jack Dawkins trailed with 11. H. Waterous and J. Hilton both amassed 17 markers for the Lumbermen.

The Angels led all the way by taking a 14-8 lead in the first period and hiking it to 36-22 at halftime.

Duke Snider's nine home runs off Cardinal pitching at Ebbets Field this year was a National League record. The previous high for a hitter against one club in one park was eight by Ralph Kiner against Boston in Pittsburgh during the 1947 season.

Outfielder Jerry Lynch, a Yankee farm hand, is making the Bronx brass mighty happy. He led the Piedmont League in hits, doubles, triples, total bases, RBIs and average. He was fourth in homers.

Bratton Cops Decision but Shows Little

Baltimore, Oct. 1 (AP)—Johnny Bratton seemed to have been saving himself last night for the shot he's supposed to get at Kid Gavilan's welterweight title next month.

The No. 2 welter from Chicago showed little to 1,856 persons in the Coliseum and a national (CBS) television audience and was held to a split decision for the second straight time by Al (Sugar) Wilson of Englewood, N. J.

Bratton got the nod from Referee Lee Halfpenny 6-3-1 and Judge Bill Ellis 7-2-1. Judge Jimmy Jones scored it 5-3-2 in favor of Wilson. The AP scorecard had it 5-4-1 for Bratton.

No Contract Signed

Afterward, Manager Hymie Walman said Bratton is slated to try to take back the welter crown from Gavilan on either Nov. 6 or 13. He said uncertainties whether to hold the fight in Chicago or New York are holding up a definite date, although admitting no contract had been signed.

Gavilan has hinted he might surrender the welter title and move up to the middleweights. He took the title from Bratton in 1951.

Bratton weighed 150½, Wilson 148¾.

Brooklynites Plan Battle for Globulin

Albany, Oct. 1 (AP)—Turned down by the State Health Department, the chairman of a Brooklyn parents group says he will carry an appeal for gamma globulin for schoolmates of two polio victims "as high as President Eisenhower."

The state health commissioner, Dr. Herman E. Hilleboe, told a three-member delegation yesterday that state and federal regulations for allocation of the rare blood derivative could not be changed. The supply presently is restricted to household contacts.

Jack Schekira of Brooklyn, who said he was chairman of the joint committee of the Parents Association of Public School 273 and the Boulevard Tenants Association, told reporters later that his group would take its appeal as high as the President.

Demands Are Presented

Cleveland, Oct. 1 (AP)—Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers representatives are presenting demands to the nation's railroads today for a 30 per cent wage boost. And in the mails are demands for 37½-cent hourly boosts from three other big rail unions—the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and the Order of Railway Conductors. The four independent unions represent nearly a third of a million railroaders, whose contracts with the roads expire at midnight. Before any of the four unions could strike, a vote of the membership would be necessary. All four unions also ask additional benefits.

Gets Suspended Term

William Becker, 76, of Lake Katrine, was given a suspended sentence when he appeared today before City Judge Raymond J. Mino on a charge that he failed to observe a stop sign. Becker was arrested Monday following a two-car collision at Franklin and Prospect streets.

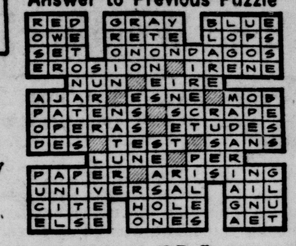
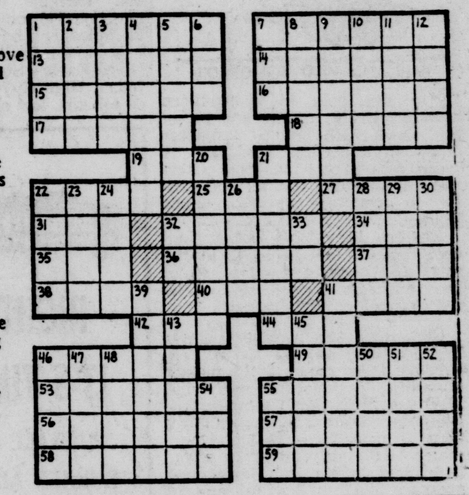
Answer to Previous Puzzle





In Cave Three Days

Paisley, Scotland, Oct. 1 (AP)—For three days, 16-year-old John Butler groped blindly in a twisting cave beneath a Scottish hillside trying desperately to find a way out. Sometimes he sang, sometimes he slept. But most of the time he wandered through the maze of underground tunnels seeking the entrance. Hungry, he ate the two candles he took with him on what was planned as a Sunday afternoon exploration jaunt. He stumbled between two rocks yesterday and saw a glimmer of light—the mouth of the cave. A truck driver found him near collapse and brought him to his home here.

Brooklynites Plan Battle for Globulin

Albany, Oct. 1 (AP)—Turned down by the State Health Department, the chairman of a Brooklyn parents group says he will carry an appeal for gamma globulin for schoolmates of two polio victims "as high as President Eisenhower."

The state health commissioner, Dr. Herman E. Hilleboe, told a three-member delegation yesterday that state and federal regulations for allocation of the rare blood derivative could not be changed. The supply presently is restricted to household contacts.

Jack Schekira of Brooklyn, who said he was chairman of the joint committee of the Parents Association of Public School 273 and the Boulevard Tenants Association, told reporters later that his group would take its appeal as high as the President.

Demands Are Presented

Cleveland, Oct. 1 (AP)—Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers representatives are presenting demands to the nation's railroads today for a 30 per cent wage boost. And in the mails are demands for 37½-cent hourly boosts from three other big rail unions—the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and the Order of Railway Conductors. The four independent unions represent nearly a third of a million railroaders, whose contracts with the roads expire at midnight. Before any of the four unions could strike, a vote of the membership would be necessary. All four unions also ask additional benefits.

Gets Suspended Term

William Becker, 76, of Lake Katrine, was given a suspended sentence when he appeared today before City Judge Raymond J. Mino on a charge that he failed to observe a stop sign. Becker was arrested Monday following a two-car collision at Franklin and Prospect streets.

In Cave Three Days

Paisley, Scotland, Oct. 1 (AP)—For three days, 16-year-old John Butler groped blindly in a twisting cave beneath a Scottish hillside trying desperately to find a way out. Sometimes he sang, sometimes he slept. But most of the time he wandered through the maze of underground tunnels seeking the entrance. Hungry, he ate the two candles he took with him on what was planned as a Sunday afternoon exploration jaunt. He stumbled between two rocks yesterday and saw a glimmer of light—the mouth of the cave. A truck driver found him near collapse and brought him to his home here.

Chaplin Sells Studio

Hollywood, Oct. 1 (AP)—Charlie Chaplin has sold the studio where he strutted to film fame as a tramp in the years before he became a controversial figure denied re-entry to the United States. A real estate firm, Webb and Knapp, of New York city, has bought the nearly five-acre property for $650,000 cash. On part of its 360-foot frontage along Sunset boulevard a major supermarket for Safeway will be built. Negotiations are on for lease of the two sound stages for making TV films.
